Mr. William W. Gibson
Principal

Reflectively looking over the heads of students, Mr. Gibson seems to remember the many other young people.

William Gibson Exemplifies Duty,

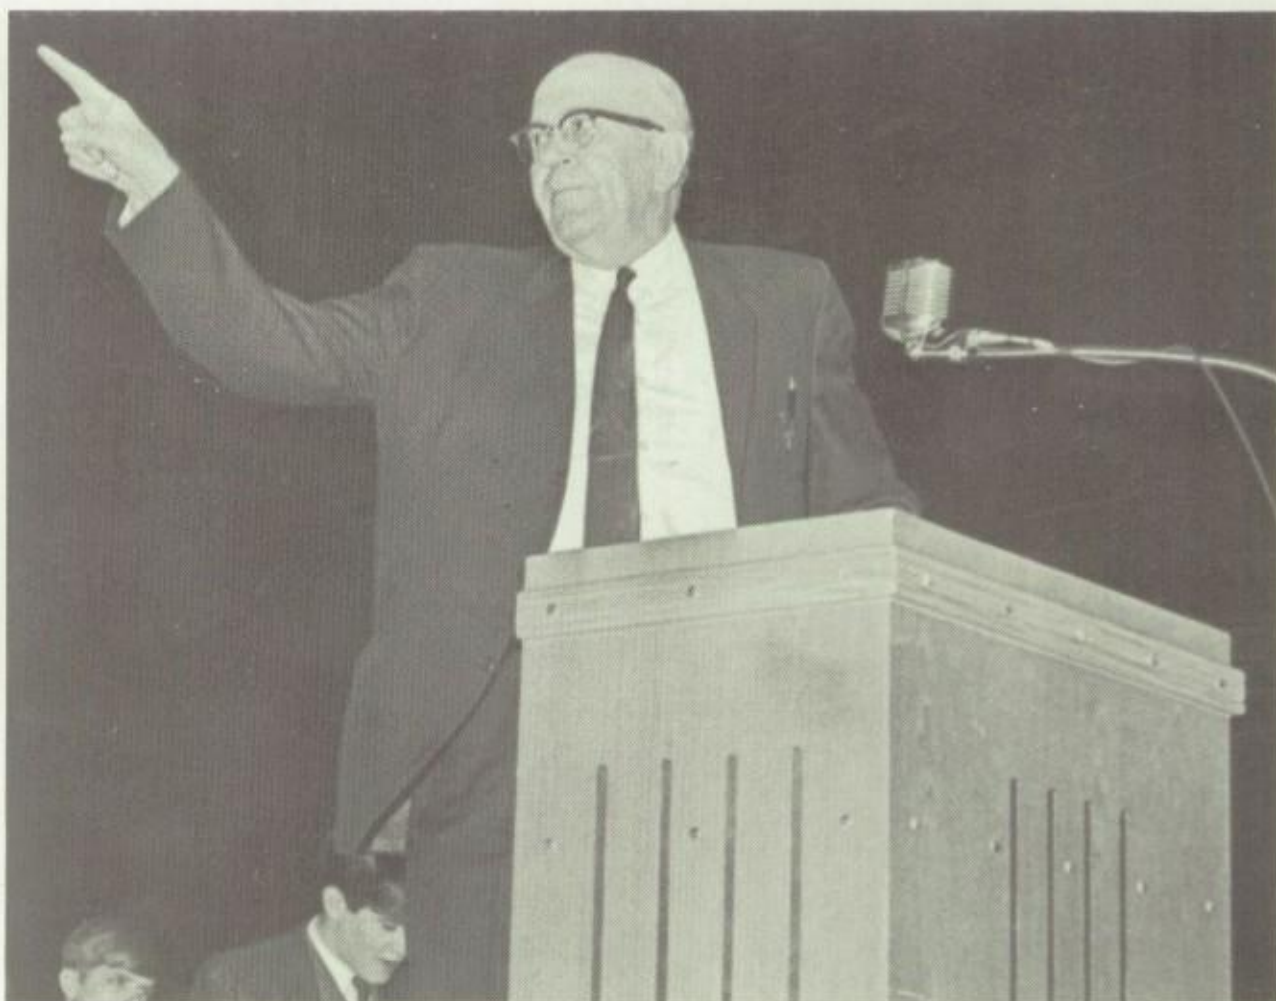

Principal William W. Gibson retired after serving for forty years from 1928-1968 as West High's third principal. During his tenure Mr. Gibson initiated many of the present traditions. To West he brought the homeroom system, Student Senate, the Variety Show, and Homecoming. His motto "Duty, Honor, Service" was adopted by the school. The daily flag-raising ceremony and the saying of the "Pledge of Allegiance" before assemblies also originated with him.

Mr. Gibson received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Parsons College in 1922. His Master of Arts degree in education was attained at the University of Iowa in 1928. Before coming to West, he taught for seven and one-half years in Rock Valley, Estherville, Worthington, Minnesota, and Jackson, Minnesota. In Estherville and Worthington, he also held the position of principal.

While under the leadership of Mr. Gibson, West received the National Bellamy

Flag Award in 1962. He was then appointed to the National Bellamy Advisory Board. Because of his role in promoting high school speech, Mr. Gibson is former Executive Secretary of the Iowa High School Speech Association.

In 1967 he received the American Educators Medal Award, one of sixteen given by the Freedoms Foundation in Valley Forge. He was also named "Man of the Year" for 1967 by the Waterloo Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gibson inspects every detail with the utmost care while Miss Adalene Wagner and Mrs. Linda Hoel make necessary costume alterations. The girls are Debbie Wildes and Sally Titus.

Mr. Gibson and Mr. Harold Burshtan, administrative assistant, return to school after attending a Kiwanis meeting where they introduced West's foreign students.

A policy assuring the maximum educational benefits to all students regardless of their race, cultural background, or economic conditions was adopted by the Board of Directors in February 1967. The Advisory Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity, composed of fifteen citizens and appointed by the Board, was charged to study problems relating to the fulfillment of the policy and to report findings and recommendations to the Board.

Striving to improve the opportunities of each student, special provisions were made to enhance his full development. Smaller class sizes and more clerical assistance for teachers resulted in more individual attention for the student. Greater use of newsletters and open houses improved communication between home and school. Laboratories and rooms equipped with a variety of instructional aids, such as tape recorders and overhead projectors, made the teaching task easier. Through inter-school visitations, students shared experiences and promoted understanding.

Dr. Wells, Mr. Spry, and Mr. Close consider the expansion of the Waterloo School System's libraries.

Mr. Kersenbrock Ably Aids West's Administration

Administrative assistant, head of the school Civil Defense program, and head of the cafeteria finances were among Vice-Principal Edgar Kersenbrock's roles. As adviser of the sound crew, he put in many extra hours preparing for the Christmas program and the Variety Show.

Mr. Kersenbrock has held the positions of coach of basketball, baseball, and football, social science teacher, and Naval Reserves commander. From the University of Omaha, he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in social studies and a Master of Science in Business Administration degree.

Counselors Help Plan Students' Futures

Besides counseling, helping with study halls, and evaluating ACT, SAT, and NMSQT scores, each counselor had special duties.

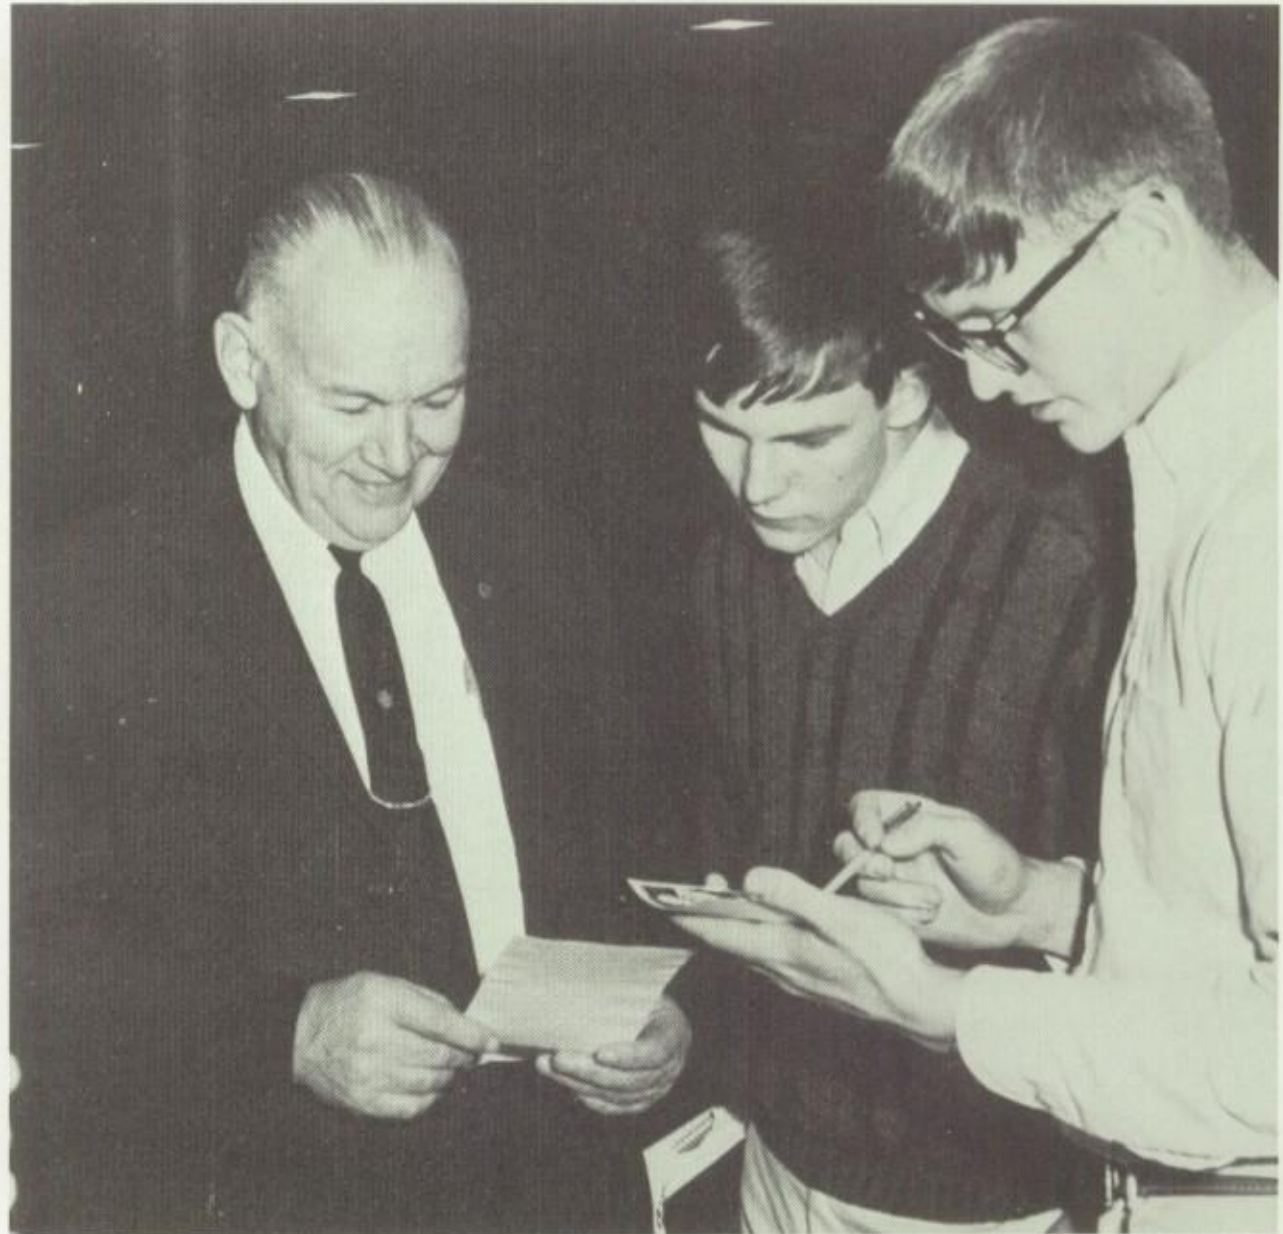

Mrs. Ethel Scott was in charge of averaging grade points and rank in class, keeping the accumulative folders updated, and taking charge of the no-home-room students. She was also adviser to the Student Senate Scholarship Committee and Gaveliers.

Besides counseling, Mr. Robert Siddens was busy as athletic director and wrestling coach.

Mrs. Marjorie Fish and Mr. Wesley Sodergren together worked with the student directors on maintaining a relaxed atmosphere in the Student Center and at social functions. Mr. Sodergren could also be seen aiding the sound crew and helping with scheduling.

Mr. Merlin Scholl's main concern was advising each student on the questions relating to college. He also headed the Activities Council.

Seven girls assisted the counselors in the Guidance Office by taking messages and running errands.

Students Gain Musical Appreciation

Representing the Music Department, the orchestra, A-chorus, and concert band performed at the Evening of Music February 15. The same groups combined with those of East High and Cedar Falls High in the production of the Tri-school Music Festival May 7.

After six appearances at football games, the marching band became the concert band. Both stage band and concert band presented assemblies.

A-chorus, sophomore chorus, girls' chorus, and B-chorus presented the Christmas program. A-chorus also sang for the Rotary Club, taped a show aired over KWWL-TV December 24, and presented a school assembly.

The orchestra appeared in an assembly for the students, at the fall and spring plays, and with the chorus in the Christmas program.

Becky Updegraff and Chris Choplin find that putting on a chorus program requires much practice.

"Come on, people, let's tune-up!" shouts Mr. McCowen as tension rises during a Christmas program practice.

Moods and Emotions Expressed Through Art

Art instructors, Mrs. Joy Buchan and Mr. Bruce Montgomery, innovated a concept enabling them to stress their favorite areas of art by switching classes at the semester. Students pursued art at three levels, Art I, Art II, and Art III.

Mr. Montgomery helped students in metals, clay, ceramics, wood, and other sculptural materials. Drawing and design were taught by Mrs. Buchan. Acrylics and salt blocks were new mediums for art expression.

To broaden their perspective by viewing the work of other artists, art students made field trips to art exhibits at the Recreation Center, the Sons of Jacob Synagogue, and the University of Northern Iowa. They also took trips to scenic areas to sketch.

Exhibits at West High and the administration building displayed Wahawk talent in collages, copper etchings, craypas and water color drawings, and three-dimensional forms constructed from toothpicks and chicken wire. The displays were changed frequently in an effort to interest more students in the field of art.

The Art Department also created sets for the Variety Show and plays, decorations for Prom and Homecoming, and posters for the halls.

Students Learn Foreign Languages, Culture

Through practice, correction, and more practice, modern foreign language students learned the skills of listening, speaking, reading, and writing in French, German, Russian, or Spanish. Students mastered the language's sound system by repeating dialogues after a model on tape. Grammar was learned through a variety of speaking drills.

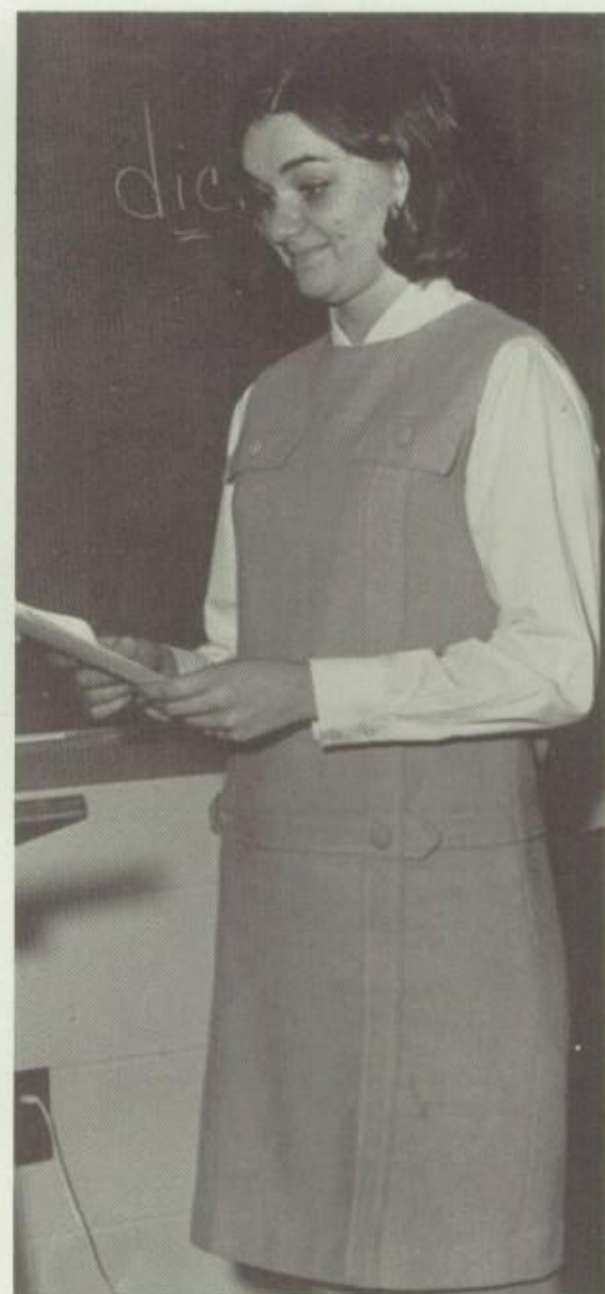

Roman culture and history and the derivation of English words were stressed in Latin II. Although some of the work was oral pronunciation, the majority of the course involved translations covering Roman history from its beginnings through Caesar's conquests.

"The right pronunciation is very important," Mrs. Stecher explains to Anne Blackman and Lana Fortune.

After days of preparation, Marlys Simpson faces the moment of truth.

English Stresses Individual Work

Sophomores in English II studied grammar, outlining, and a general unit of literature. Among the books read was Charles Dickens' A TALE OF TWO CITIES, and John Knowles' A SEPARATE PEACE.

English III classes concentrated on American literature by reading such works as THE SCARLET LETTER by Nathaniel Hawthorne and THE PEARL by John Steinbeck. The course included a drama unit, a mass media study, and a free reading unit.

English IV, a college preparatory course, emphasized English and foreign literature. In addition to writing two term papers, the seniors studied Shakespeare's MACBETH and HAMLET, Sophocles' OEDIPUS REX, Bernard Shaw's PYGMALION, and others.

Seniors not going to college took Communication Arts I. Giving speeches, studying grammar, writing business letters, and practicing filling out job applications were units in the course.

Courses enabling students to delve deeper into the field of their choice were Journalism $\frac{1}{2}$, Advanced Composition $\frac{1}{2}$, and Speech $\frac{1}{2}$.

Social Studies Department Provides

Social studies courses were augmented by the addition of Senior Social Studies I, which centered on a problem approach to the social conditions of today, such as de facto segregation and life in the suburbs.

American History and Government I, a required course, promoted an understanding of the heritage of America by illustrating the history and principles of our federal and state governments on all levels.

With a major portion of time devoted to nineteenth and twentieth century events, yet some emphasis on past events responsible for present conditions, World History I was a survey course of considerable breadth.

World Geography ½ built an understanding of the geographical patterns that exist throughout the world and an understanding of the influence of these patterns on man's existence.

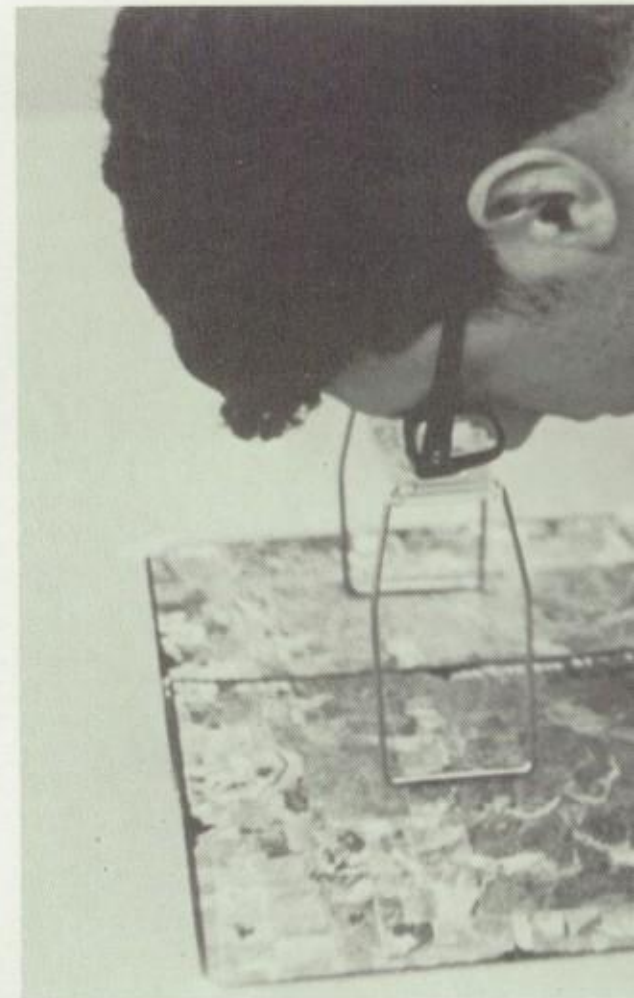

Through American Government I, students learned the significance of their guaranteed rights and acquired a knowledge of the processes, behavior, and institutions of political systems.

Economics I stressed the economic activities of America and the other nations of the world including the methods and techniques of production and consumption.

Students Master Mathematic Skills by Logic

Graphs, functions, and variables entangled math students from Algebra I to Math V.

Sequential courses included Algebra I, Geometry I, Algebra II, Math IV, and Math V.

Usually taken on the ninth grade level, Algebra I dealt with proofs and algebraic expressions.

Geometry I was a study of two and three dimensional geometric forms. Methods of inductive and deductive reasoning and formal proofs based on definitions, axioms, and previously proven theorems were emphasized.

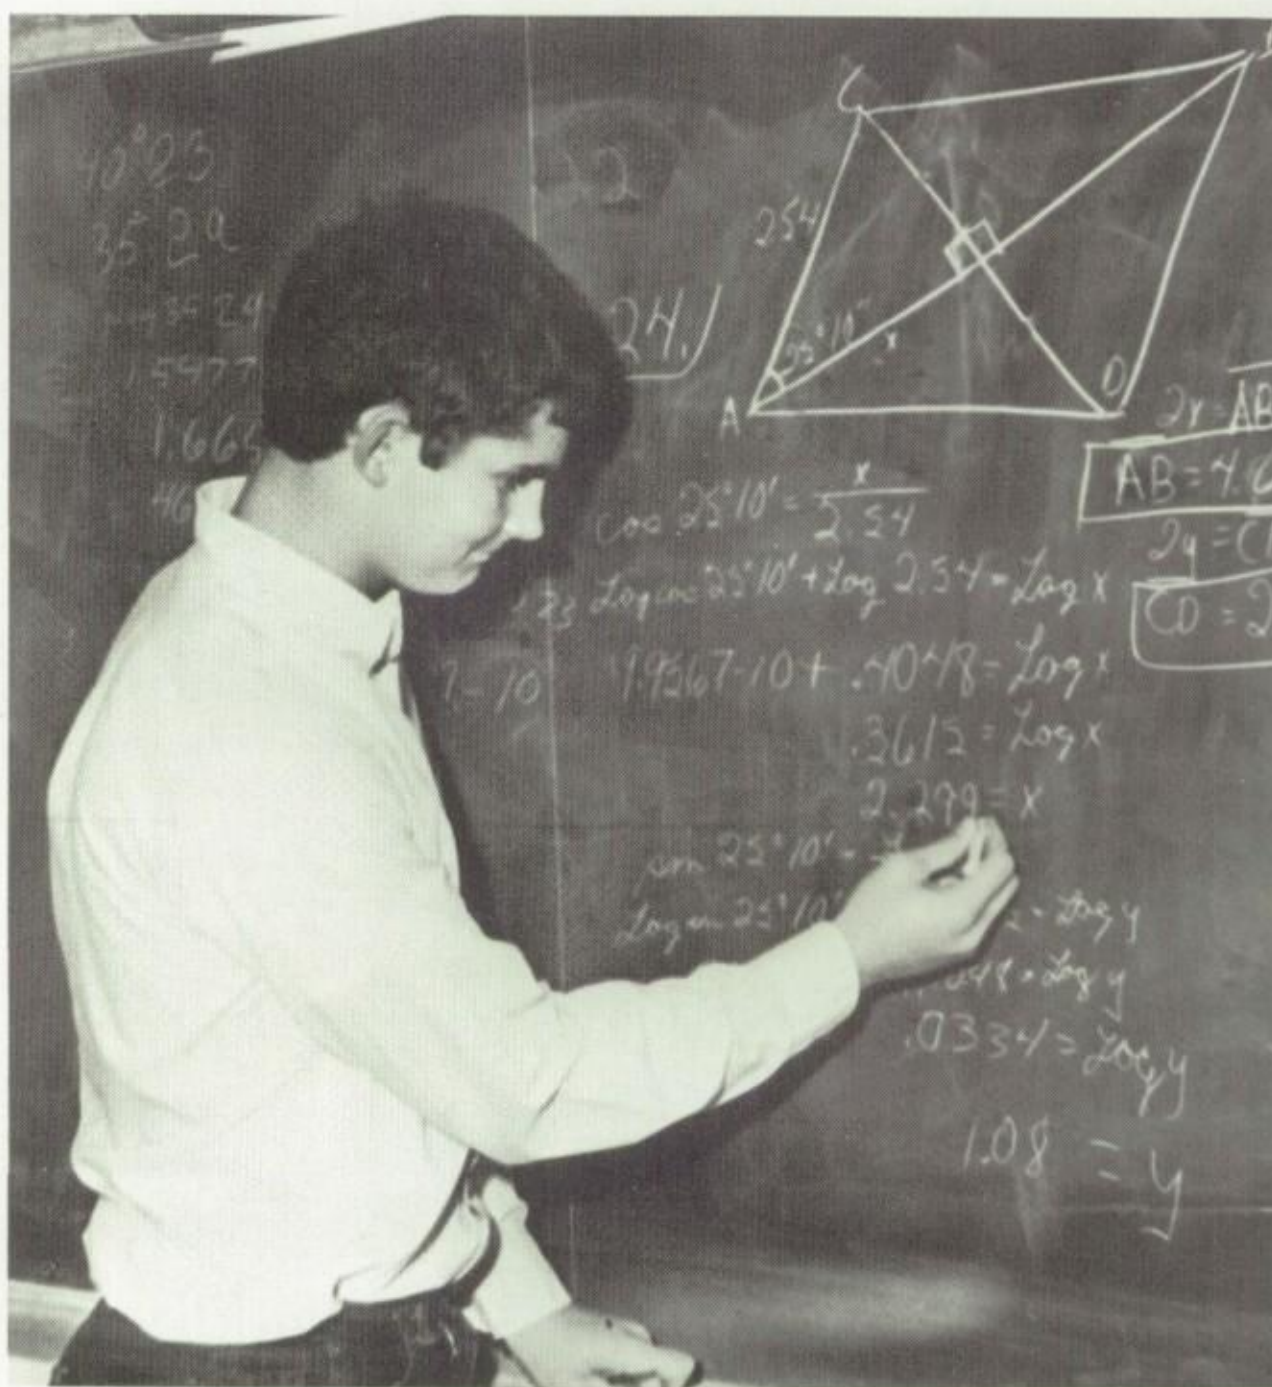

Algebra II continued the study of the mathematical structure begun in Algebra and Geometry I.

Analytic and three dimensional geometry and trigonometric and polynomial functions were topics of discussion in Math IV.

Math V was available to seniors in the accelerated program who had completed the sequence through Math IV. The course included a further study of probability with statistical applications.

For students not following the sequential program, Foundations of Mathematics II was designed to follow Algebra I or Foundations of Mathematics I, which was offered in ninth grade.

Consumer Mathematics $\frac{1}{2}$ for seniors not in the sequential program dealt with applications of mathematics to everyday living.

The Home Economics Department prepared girls for their future role as homemakers by teaching them how to run an efficient household.

Sophomore Home Economics II classes discussed family relationships, foods, clothing, home nursing, child development, and housing.

Home Economics III afforded students the opportunity to study marriage and human relationships. Each girl made a wool project and prepared complete meals. The school nurse taught a series of lessons on home care of the sick.

Designed for seniors with no previous homemaking, Special Home Economics was a comprehensive course covering the topics of Home Economics II and Home Economics III.

Salesmanship ½ was a basic course stressing principles of the selling of goods and services. Giving a general background in the rights of a citizen and businessman was the objective of Business Law ½.

The vocational office program was divided into two parts—clerical and secretarial. A student in the clerical sequence took Typing I, Bookkeeping I, and Office Practice I, while the secretarial student enrolled in Typing I, Shorthand I, Bookkeeping I, and Office Practice I.

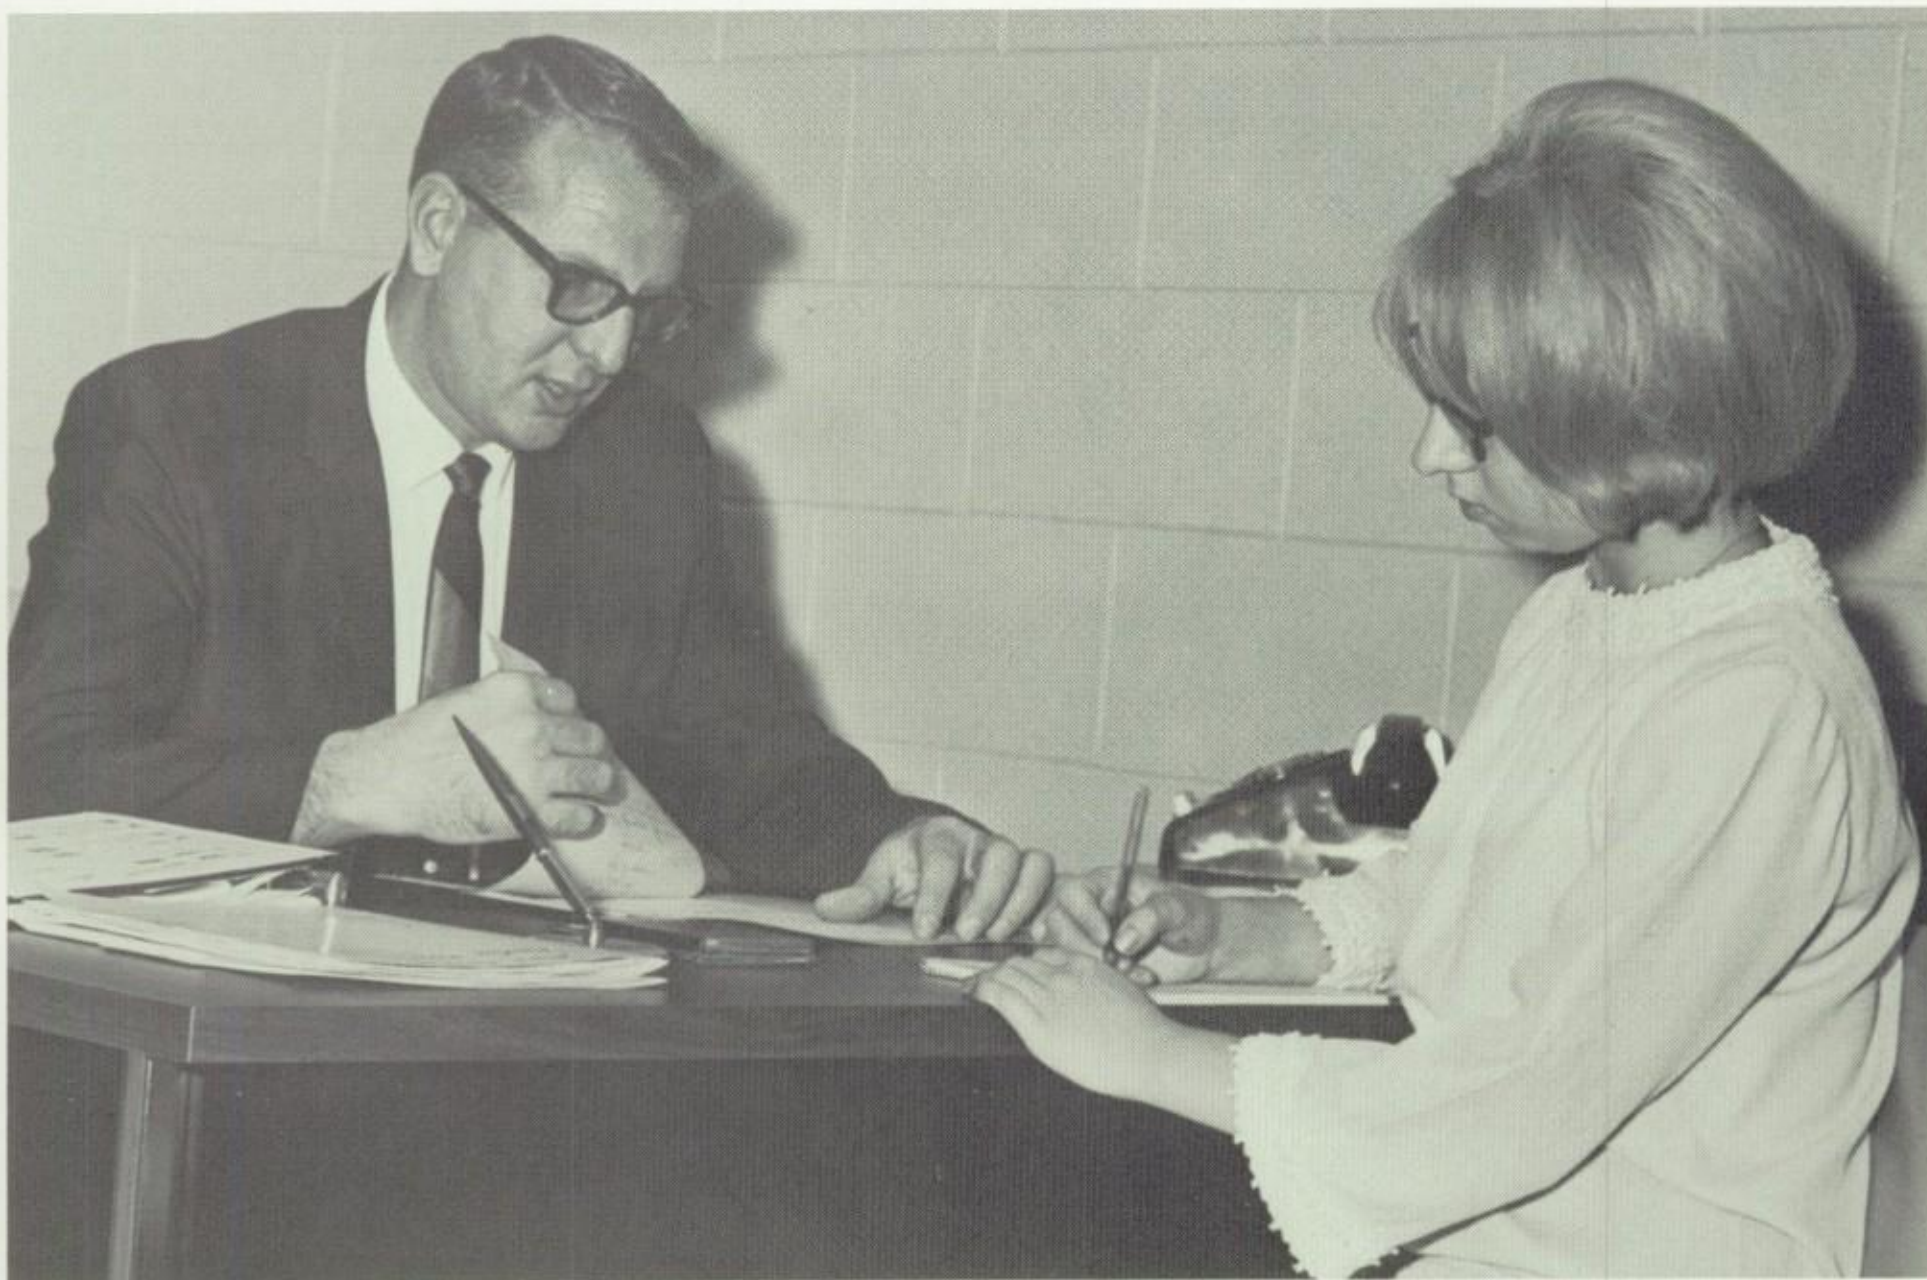

Office Practice I involved the development of numerous skills, including typing, filing, and telephoning.

DON NARVESON—Boys' Golf Coach. MRS. DELORES RASMUSSON—Girl's Swimming. MR. JACK SCHUVER—Boys' Physical Education and Swimming, Varsity Football Coach.

Fitness was the key word in the physical education classes designed to improve the skills and health of Wahawks.

After ten minutes of warm-up exercises, the girls' physical education classes developed skills throughout the year in speedball, field hockey, basketball, archery, and volleyball. They also participated in folk dancing, rhythm activities, apparatus gymnastics, track, tennis, and golf.

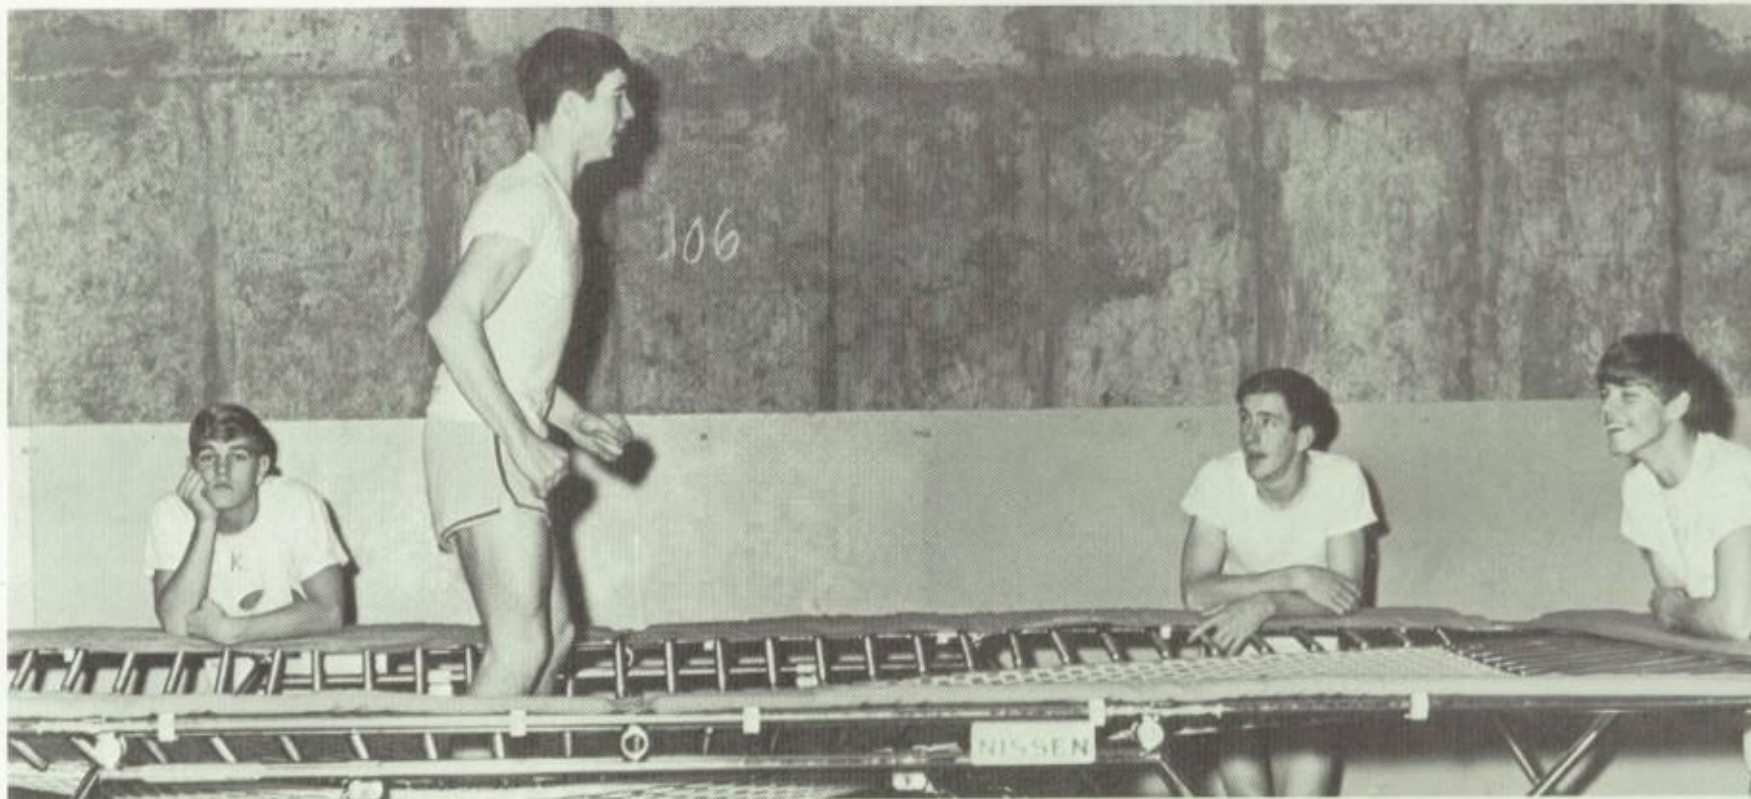

Boys in physical education classes took part in flag football, volleyball, basketball, and wrestling. Other activities were mat tumbling, working out on parallel bars and the trampoline, track and field events, softball, and tennis.

During the year students took physical fitness tests to determine their abilities as compared to national standards.

Diving, life-saving techniques, and the basic strokes—front crawl, side stroke, back stroke, and breast stroke—were covered in swimming classes. Swimming was a required course unless the student had optioned out by passing a test.

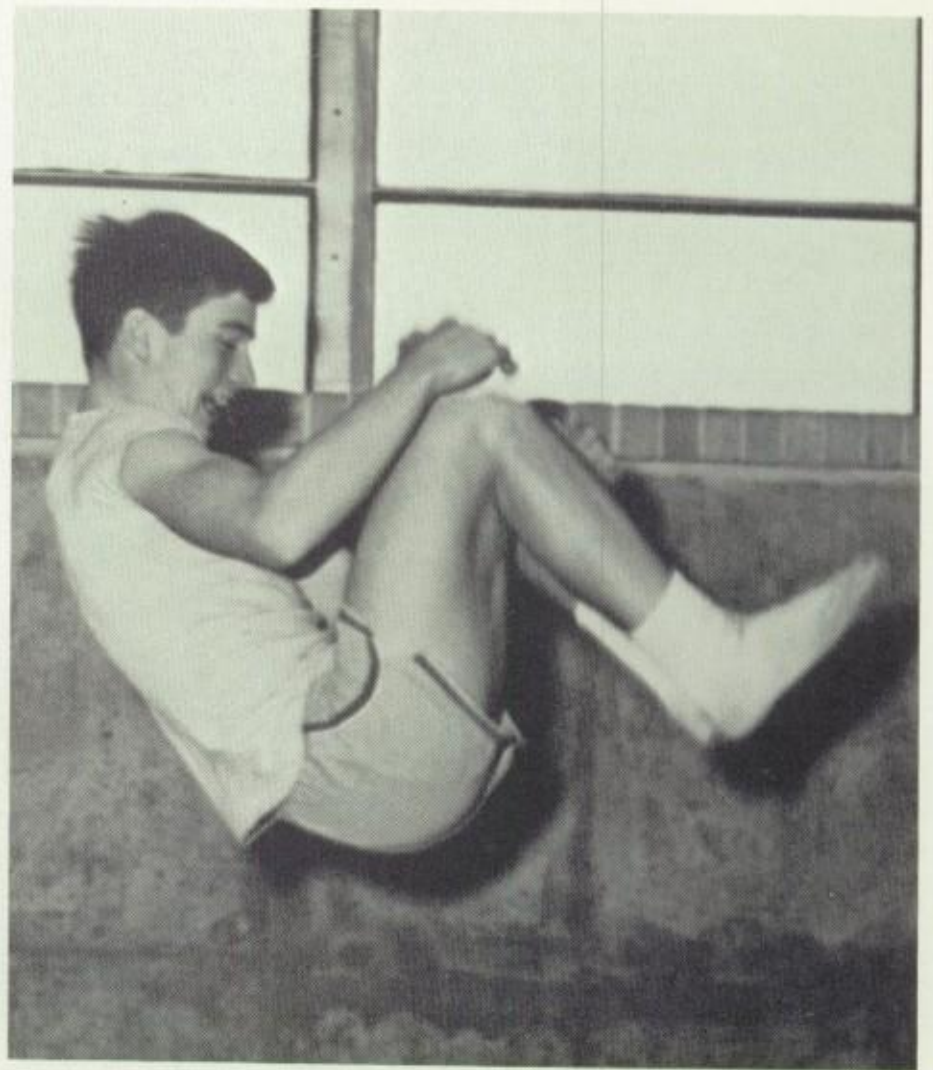

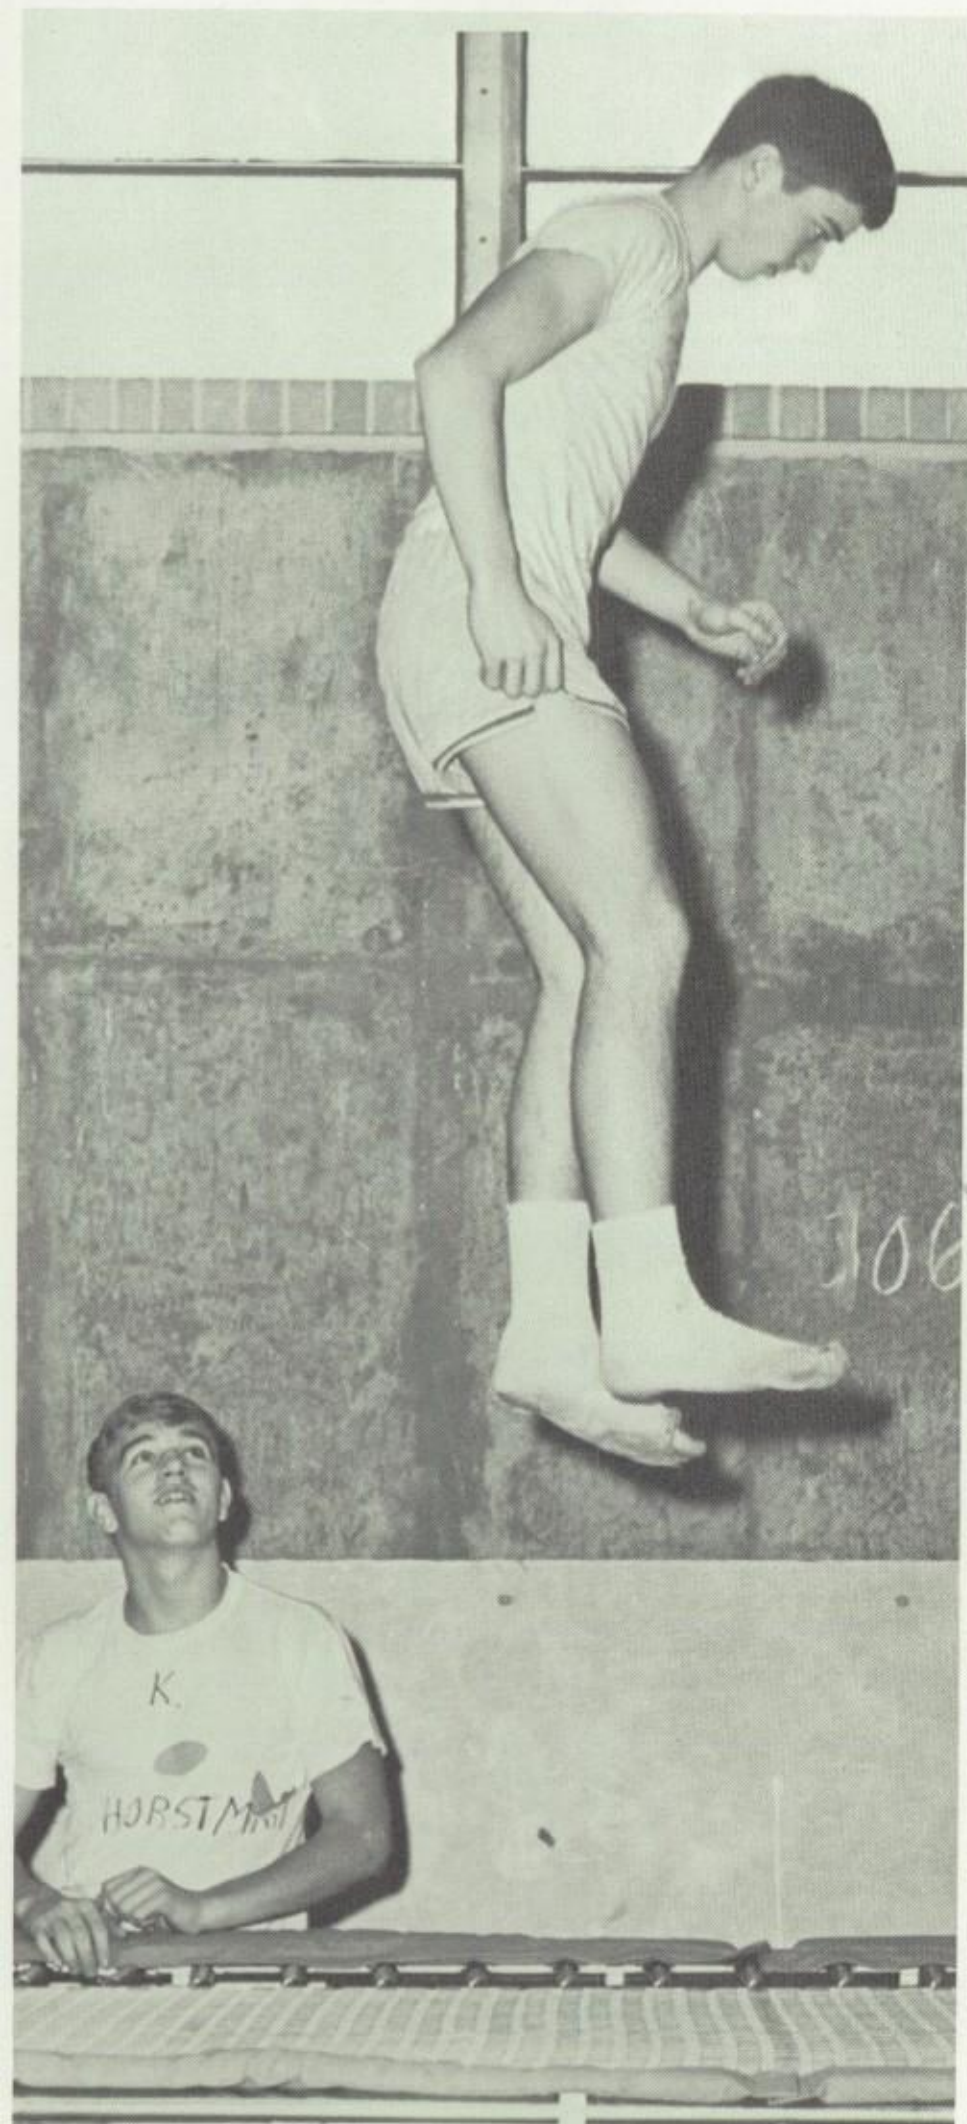

Mrs. Alta Emerson, girls' physical education instructor, retired at the end of the school year. Mrs. Emerson joined the West High faculty in the fall of 1947.

In addition to her teaching duties, Mrs. Emerson served as co-sponsor of the Future Nurses Club and as adviser to the Girls' Recreational Activities.

Skills Acquired Through Industrial Arts

Power and Auto Mechanics I was divided into a one-semester study of the production of power by various engines and a one-semester study of the automotive internal combustion engine.

Students learned advanced skills in the area of machine tools, foundry, arc welding, oxyacetylene welding, and blue-print reading in Vocational Metals. General Metals I students studied tools and materials basic to the metalworking industry.

Woodworking skills and information were offered in Woodworking I, Woodworking II, and Vocational Woodworking. Bookshelves, canoes, cabinets, and a counter for the Guidance Office were among the projects made by the Vocational Woodworking classes.

Sectioned for students with and without physics, Electricity-Electronics I provided for the basic understanding of electrical principles, procedures, and techniques.

Mechanical Drawing I gave a background in the industrial language of drawing. Tackling Machine Drafting I and II, students applied the problems of the machine designer, the tool maker, the pattern maker, and the machinist.

To learn the symbols, methods, and conventions needed to graphically represent the architect's ideas for the construction of a building, students studied Architectural Drafting I and II.

Through five areas of employment, Co-operative Part-Time Education coordinated the studies of the student between school and work. Seniors, who were the only ones eligible for the program, were paid the going wage of a beginning employee. School coordinators visited students on the job every three weeks.

The Nurse Aide Education under whose auspices students worked in one of the three Waterloo hospitals was supervised by Mrs. Arletta Kober. Physical therapy training was a new health services area open to students. Mrs. Kober also coordinated the Office Education, which enabled students to do secretarial work, data processing, and office machine work.

Trades and Industries employed students in such jobs as business machine repair, mechanical and architectural drafting, electrical work, carpentry, and printing. Mr. Tom Arthur, coordinator for the program, taught a required related course.

Distributive Education was headed by Mr. Miles Tyler. Students in the program were involved in the field of selling goods or services in the Waterloo-Cedar Falls area. Mr. Tyler taught a related class in retailing.

Students were also employed in the Food Service area. The program was coordinated by Mr. Tyler who placed students in waitress, hostess, and cook occupations. Next year, the program will be expanded to include some of Waterloo's finest restaurants as training stations.

Library Aids Students in Various Subjects

Though often referred to as a teacher, Miss Mary Wordehoff, librarian at West for six years, preferred to be thought of as a tutor. She believed her individual student relationships to be more effective and beneficial to the students than lectures to large classes.

Miss Wordehoff was aided in her work by Mrs. Ramona Osland, teacher's aide, student assistants, and Mrs. Elizabeth Maurer, assistant librarian.

Miss Wordehoff oriented the sophomore English classes to the library. Another innovation was the utilization of the library by entire classes. This enabled students who didn't have an hour scheduled in the library to use the reference materials in completing assignments.

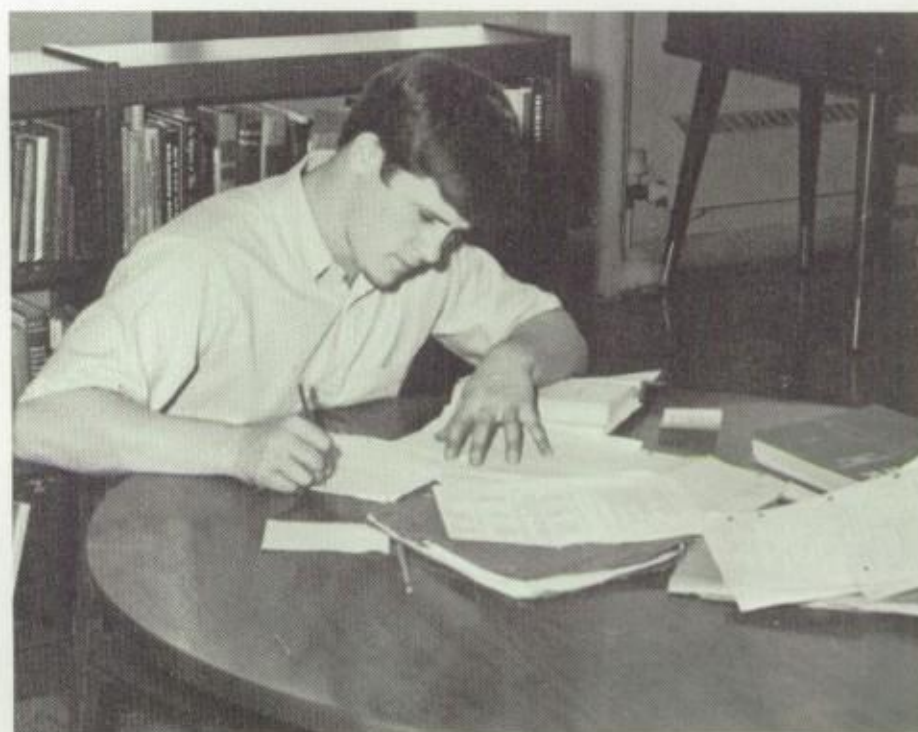

The library contained 10,343 volumes. A single order of books was placed late in the previous school year and arrived in the fall. All books were processed in the central library at Lowell School.

Driver Education Program Teaches Safety

This must be the motor deduce Pam Burger and Brenda Wilkins.

The driving training program offered the first semester had a student enrollment of 421. Through classroom instruction, simulators and actual driving, the students learned the rules and skills essential in being a safe driver. Over one half of the course was spent in the classroom where the basic driving concepts and laws were taught. One fourth of the time the students employed the simulators—machines designed to imitate actual driving conditions. Through a central control, the instructor checked the reactions of the students to various driving conditions which they viewed on film.

The use of seven cars loaned to the schools by local dealers enabled the students to spend the remainder of the time driving under the supervision of one of the seven instructors. The passing of all three phases of the course was mandatory before the student was eligible for his temporary driving permit.

Registered Nurse Guards Student Health

Student health was guarded by Mrs. Mildred Sheldahl, registered nurse.

One of her main tasks was to keep the medical record of each student updated. This was accomplished through vision tests given to the entire student body in the fall and through disease checklists which the students filled out in the spring. It was her responsibility to administer the Heaf Tuberculin Tests to the seniors and to check for positive reactions.

Mrs. Sheldahl also taught certain units related to nursing including prenatal and infant care and health in the home to sophomore and senior homemaking classes. As sponsor of the Future Nurses Club, she was kept busy after school at the club's monthly meetings.

Students who were not feeling well were sent to the nurse to receive medical attention.

Seven student assistants aided the nurse in the performance of her duties.

Mrs. Sheldahl listens sympathetically to a student's symptoms.

Scott Clark seems to have a stomach ache.

Students Learn by Contributing Their Time

Easing the busy work from the shoulders of the secretaries was the job of the student office assistants. Chosen on their citizenship, grades, desire to work, and ability to schedule an hour a day in the office, assistants worked in the Main, Attendance, and Business Offices.

In the Main Office the assistants operated the switchboard and intercom, sorted mail, ran errands, and sold cough drops.

Helping keep track of West High students was the main task of the attendance office assistants. This was accomplished by recording absentees, collecting absent sheets, and recording call slips.

Working before school and at noon, the business office assistants aided in keeping the office open and helped in the collection of money for fees and tickets.

The Projectionists, a service organization, assisted teachers in showing movies and slides. Members were accepted only after exhibiting the necessary skill and required responsibility.

Miss Marie Shellard, head of the Social Studies Department, served as coordinator of the audio-visual aids and advised the student projectionists.

Secretaries Perform Needed Services

Mrs. Ruth Seger, business secretary, completes the student candy sales report.

Mrs. Elna Beran, guidance secretary, prepares receipts for the National Merit testees.

While the three Main Office secretaries—Mrs. Betty Grange, Mrs. Gladys Miller, and Mrs. Ruby Banker—all did work of a similar nature, such as typing, taking care of the cumulative files, filling out forms, and taking dictation from the principal and vice principal, each secretary had a specialized job. Mrs. Miller made out medical excuses for physical education and swimming. Mrs. Banker typed the daily bulletin. Mrs. Grange served as the only notary public.

Mrs. Elna Beran was the guidance office secretary. Her duties included filling out transcripts for all current seniors, recording and tabulating service points, figuring grade points, and taking care of the Future Plans Room.

Mrs. Alma Henwood was in charge of the Attendance Office. She helped keep track of all the attendance records, issued call slips and admits after homeroom period, and checked illnesses and absences.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ellerman, secretary in the Guidance Office, also worked two hours a day in the Attendance Office helping Mrs. Henwood.

Mrs. Ruth Seger worked in the Business Office collecting money for tickets and fees and aiding Mr. Cunningham with the bookkeeping.

Headed by Mr. Ernest Kristensen, the ten-member custodian crew worked in two shifts. Among the crew's duties in the maintenance of West were shoveling snow, taking care of the lights, and setting up the bleachers in the boys' gym for the winter sports.

Eleven adult employees and twelve student helpers worked together in producing the food for the two lunch lines—the a la carte and the plate lunch. The average turnover per day was seven hundred students in each line.

The menus for the plate lunch were planned by a dietitian for all the Waterloo area schools.

With treasury money from a candy sale, the Senate I purchased an eagle for the Senate room and new draperies for the Student Center and Senate room. Industrious Senators spent part of their Christmas vacation painting the Student Center.

Past basketball coach E.G. Strobridge was honored by a plaque placed in the library.

Activities of Senate II included the Variety Show, the campus clean-up and breakfast, Prom, and the Senate-faculty basketball game. The Senate also placed a recognition plaque for Principal William Gibson, founder of the Senate, in the Student Center.

Both Senates I and II participated in student car checks and intra-city exchange days.

Under the auspices of the Senate, elected representatives were able to centralize suggestions from the entire student body. Resulting projects promoted the spirit of the school.

Committees—auditorium, citizenship, extra curricular, safety, scholarship, social, and welfare—extended special efforts in their respective fields.

Sponsor of the Senate, Miss Faith Kurtzweil, retired at the end of the year.

Gaveliers Strive to Create More Efficient Homerooms

Uniting the homerooms into a single body and cooperating with the Senate were the objectives of Gaveliers, composed of homeroom presidents.

Gaveliers I supervised the clothing drive for local children and the campaign for Christmas gifts and food for area families. A social event honoring the homeroom teachers was one of the projects of Gaveliers II. Mrs. Ethel Scott, guidance counselor, was Gaveliers' faculty adviser.

Activities Council Manages Extracurricular Program

Activities Council's task was to revise the list used as a standard by the faculty in awarding Golden W points. Members of the group included the heads of all school organizations and activities. Leading the council were Mr. Merlin Scholl, faculty adviser, and officers Becky Peet, president; Jeff Thomas, vice-president; and Debbie Witt, secretary.

Before school and during lunch hour, student directors—Becky Foster, Marcia Hammond, Phil Martens, and Jeff Thomas—acted as hostesses and hosts in the Student Center. Besides buying and playing records, the directors helped plan and decorate for social events and controlled displays and sales which took place in the Student Center.

Chosen on their citizenship record, the student directors were ex officio members of the Senate.

Honor Club Sets Scholarship Pace

Under the guise of Kappa Gamma Pi, Honor Club members met for a battle of the minds every third Thursday of the month under the supervision of Mr. Robert Tracy.

Varied programs and activities were planned by the officers and committees. Occasionally the club invited a guest speaker. Participation in games, such as College Bowl, Hands Down, and Chutes and Ladders, offered an escape from the tensions of the school day. The Christmas party and the annual spring picnic proved to be the most enjoyable meetings.

For a service project, members decorated the school Christmas tree.

A 3.5 grade average for three consecutive semesters was the prerequisite for membership. Consequently, sophomores were accepted only in the second semester.

Barb Bandfield, Diane Ruisch, and Wanda Weber are thoroughly engrossed in a game of "HANDS DOWN" which Diane wins hands down.

American Field Service Promotes World

American Field Service, working in cooperation with the adult AFS chapter in Waterloo to support Foreign exchange students, consisted of over 150 West High students. Money to help sponsor a foreign student was raised by selling pencils and Christmas cards and having a bake sale.

Talks and slide presentations by the foreign students and students who had traveled abroad provided entertainment for the meetings, which were held twice a month on Tuesday.

Dave Martinez, the AFS student at West, came from Calamba, Languna in the Philippines. Jin Wook Choi represented Waterloo's sister city, Kang Nung, Korea. Irma Horstia from Helsinki, Finland, was sponsored through the International Christian Youth Exchange.

Juniors Kathy Lippold and Anne Blackman were finalists in the AFS Americans Abroad program. Kathy Lippold left second semester for a year's study in Tarangua, New Zealand. Under the same program, Rick Corton spent a summer on the Spanish island of Mollorca.

Math and Science Students Acquire Telescope

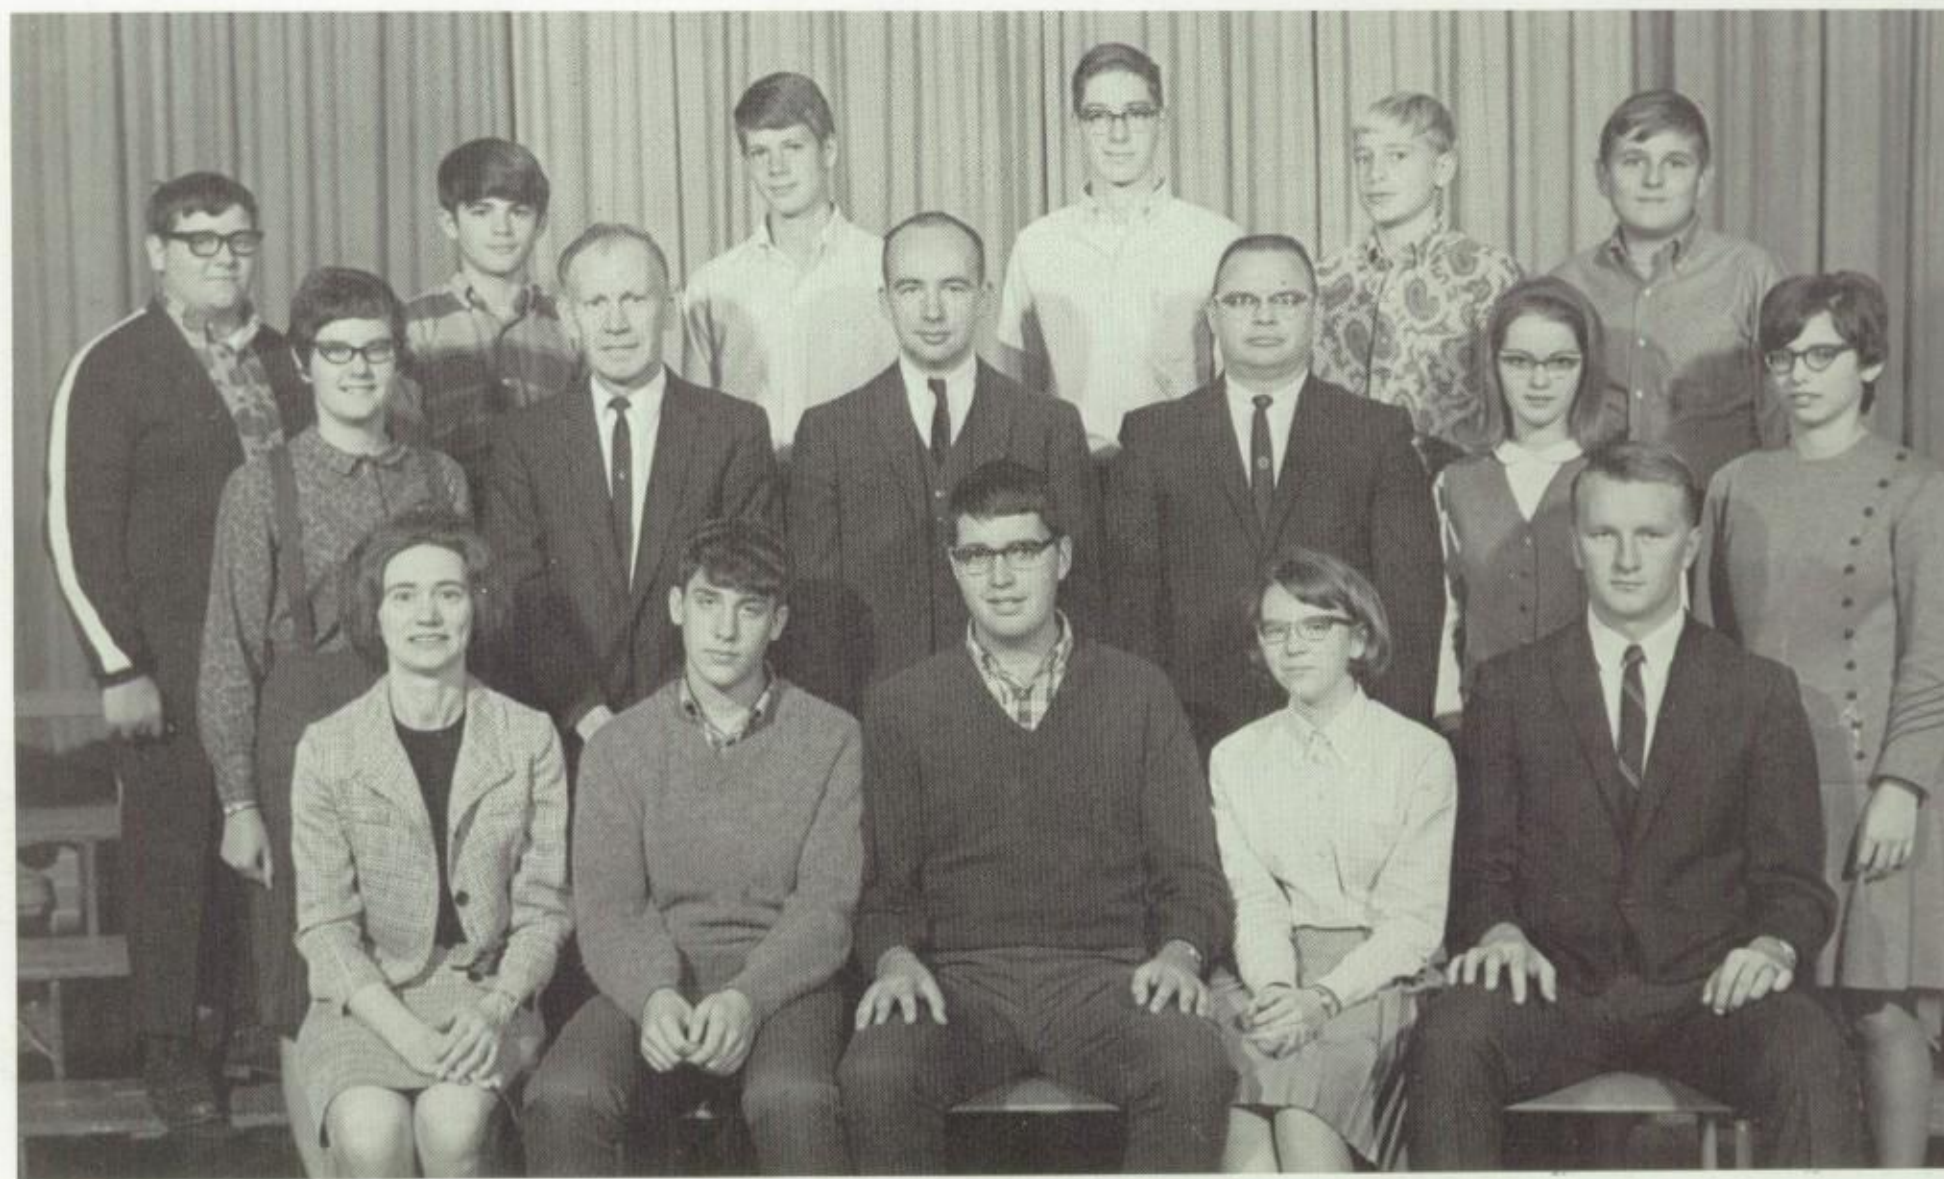

For the first time in three years, Astronomy Club was the proud possessor of its own telescope. Members also worked with a spectroscope in the spectral analysis of stars.

Through information revealed by reports, films, and guest speakers, members of the Junior Engineering Technical Society (JETS) studied recent advances in technology and investigated careers available in the various fields of engineering.

Writing programs in FORTRAN was of special interest to students in the computer language section of Math Club, which met as a unit to hear guest speakers. The three other interest groups of Math Club were calculators, slide rules, and mathematical puzzles and problems.

Political Groups Send Supplies to Vietnam Soldiers

Involving themselves politically, the Young Democrats and Young Republicans participated in senior party activities and discussed current issues.

The Young Republicans assisted the senior party with fund-raising events and campaigns. At meetings led by Mr. Jerry Kramer, members listened to guest speakers and discussed candidates. State Representative Charlene Conklin was a special guest.

Fixing up the campaign headquarters and canvassing prior to elections were among the projects of the Young Democrats, under Mr. Edward Stone's direction. Several of the club's guest speakers were members of the University of Northern Iowa Young Democrats, which worked closely with West's club.

Both clubs had a drive collecting goods for soldiers in Vietnam. Debates on current issues were held between the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans.

Armed with note cards, file boxes, and yellow legal pads, a seasoned debate team of nine members combated opponents in Iowa high schools and colleges on the topic, Resolved: that Congress should establish uniform regulations to control criminal investigation procedures. The team was led by Mr. Raymond Jorgensen, coaching his second season.

The team compiled the following record: Brindley—held at the University of Northern Iowa—6-2, Fort Dodge 4-4, Grinnell College 2-2, Newton 4-2, and Mason City 6-2. Spring competition included the Iowa Forensics League tournament in Cedar Rapids. The varsity debate team of Kevin Parsons, Dan Power, Clark Sheets, and Tom Flint competed in the Iowa High School Speech Association tournament in March.

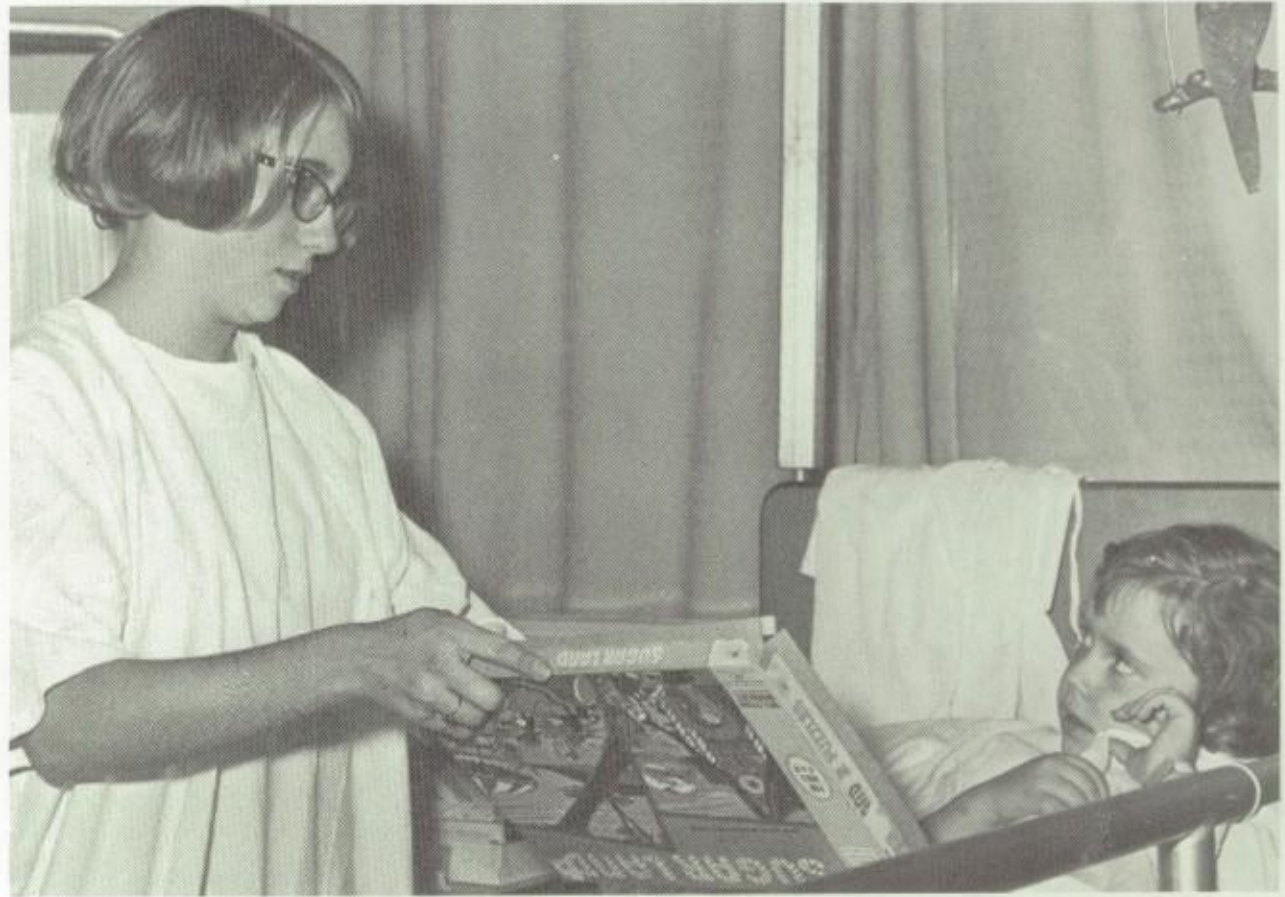

The team won one trophy in debate, and two first-place and two second-place trophies in individual competition.

Future Nurses Club Explores Many Areas

Programs of the Future Nurses Club, under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Sheldahl and Mrs. Alta Emerson, included a field trip to the mentally retarded center in Cedar Falls and a speech by a registered nurse from Allen Hospital.

Many members served as Candy Stripers at Schoitz Memorial Hospital by working in the gift shop, the admission office, the pediatrics department, and at the gift cart. Others donated service to the Americana Nursing Home, the Red Cross Blood Bank, and the immunization clinic.

Through participation in the Future Nurses Club's activities, Wahawks were able to decide if they were interested in a career in nursing or in the health service field.

Members Gain Insight Into Teaching Careers

A trip to the Children's Rehabilitation Center in Iowa City highlighted the activities of the Future Teachers Club with Mr. Clarence McConkey as faculty adviser. Eight seniors attended the University of Northern Iowa's Prospective Teachers' Day. The club also toured the administration building and probed the different fields of teaching with speakers.

Future Teachers Club was designed to inform members of the vast areas a teaching career may include. Discussions illustrated what requirements for a teaching certificate were, what being a teacher included, which aids were available to teachers, and what different areas the profession encompassed.

Future teachers Deon Stewart, Maureen Heiburger, Linda Barnhart, and Cindy Olson listen intently to a discussion of teaching careers at the monthly meeting of their club.

Selling candy at the winter sports events, refreshments at football games, and wreathes during the Christmas season were the fund-raising projects of the Varsity Club. The club purchased a movie projector for the athletic teams and a track record board which was placed in the gym.

Topics of discussion at meetings under the supervision of Mr. Richard Dotson were the various athletic programs offered at West and projects in the school and community with which the club could assist.

Only varsity sports letter winners were eligible for membership. Candidates were screened in a secret ballot by present members, eliminating initiation which allowed a group to be taken into the club simultaneously. Officers were elected twice a year.

Guests at the annual spring dinner were club members and their parents, coaches, and the administration. The banquet featured a guest speaker and recognition of outstanding athletes.

Cheerleaders Promote School Morale

At summer practices held two days a week, the varsity cheerleaders started practicing for the football season by learning new cheers. Debbie Witt, Julie Miehe, and Marcia Hammond attended a clinic at Upper Iowa in Fayette and brought back fresh ideas for cheers and pep assemblies. The cheerleaders raised money by washing cars and selling baked goods, candy, voodoo dolls, and buttons.

In the spring four of the eight sophomore cheerleaders chosen November 6 were selected for next year's varsity squad.

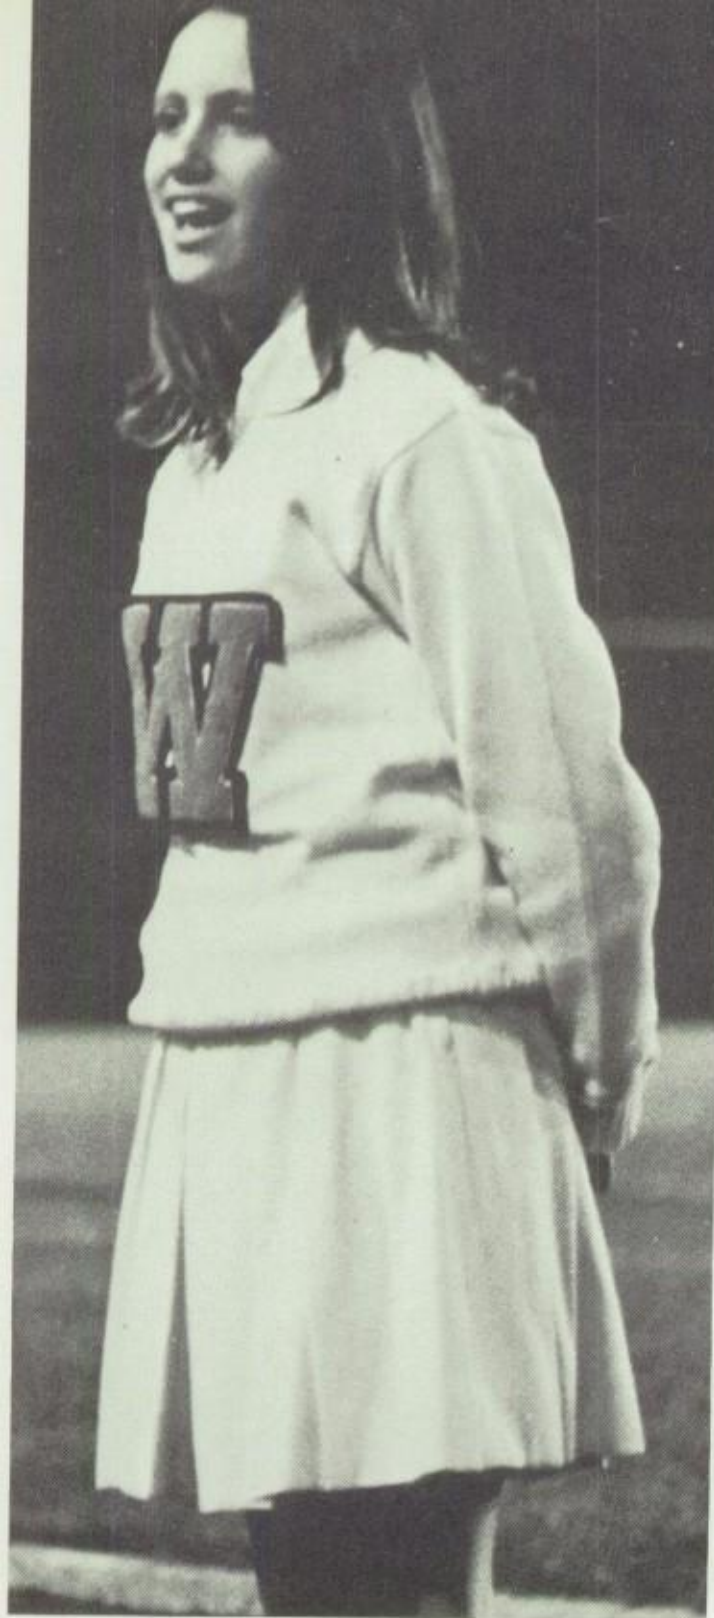

Working closely with the pep clubs, the cheerleaders encouraged school spirit through many activities, among which were performing with the hall band between classes and organizing pep breakfasts with area schools.

With twelve returning lettermen, the varsity football team, coached by Mr. Jack Schuver and assistants Mr. Dick Dotson and Mr. Chuck Schulte, completed the season with an overall record of 1-6-2. Riddled by injury during the pre-season and regular workout, the team was 1-1-1 in the Big Four and 0-3-2 in the Big Six.

Losses included defeats by Cedar Rapids Washington, Cedar Rapids Jefferson, Ames, and East Waterloo, all who were ranked in the top ten one time or another during the season. West tied both Cedar Falls and Mason City 6-6. The 27-0 rout over Columbus was the climax of the season.

Out of 82 pass attempts, 25 were completed and 4 were intercepted.

In consistency with the .500 or above record average maintained by past teams, the sophomore football team, coached by Mr. Dick Purdy and Mr. Bill Lane, finished with a 4-4-0 season.

Although small in number, the team's overall size was good. Urged on by outstanding backs Reece Wilson and Mike Clark, the offense made an impressive showing at most of the games but were generally limited to running plays. Other strong players were Bruce McFarlane at tackle and Kevin Shatzle at guard.

During the season the team encountered several strong teams. The outstanding game was the last game of the season against Cedar Falls which West won, 20-6.

Trackmen Place Third in Big Six Cross Country

Jon Delaney and Rick Allenstein run at Miller Park during a practice session.

The fall track team, defending Big Six champions, started practice August 28 with only two returning lettermen.

Dennis Daniels, leading scorer and captain of the team, established records in the one, two, and three-mile runs. He was clocked in 4:42, 10:24, and 16:18 respectively.

The first part of the season, the meets consisted of one-mile runs held on the track. After the Wartburg Invitational, which was a one and one half mile run, the meets consisted of two-mile cross country runs held at Byrnes Park. A three mile run concluded the season at the Pekin Invitational.

The highlight of the season was the West—Cedar Falls—Columbus—East Waterloo—Decorah quintrangular, as West placed in front of Decorah, the class AA champion.

Mr. Victor Argotsinger has coached the team for nine years.

Archers Head 'em Off at Grant's Pass (Oregon)

Two live matches held with Holy Trinity of Chicago spearheaded the archery season. In December Trinity's team traveled here, and in March West returned the visit. The meets proved valuable, as the archers were able to compete shoulder to shoulder with paired opponents. West won both meets.

The rest of the meets were postal exchanges. The West team and their opponents shot the specified rounds on the scheduled day. Each school mailed its score consisting of the total of the four highest scores to the other school. West's archery team's meet record was 7-2.

In meets the Chicago round was the most commonly used. Each archer shot 72 arrows from a distance of 20 yards at a 16" target. For the Duryea round, team members shot 90 arrows 30 yards from a 48" target. The Professional Archery Association round consisted of 60 arrows shot 20 yards at a 16" target.

Basketball Squad Beats East; Thomas Is Top Scorer

Close scores and tough competition challenged the varsity basketball squad as it worked on a man-to-man defense.

West's first victory, 69-68, came with the second game when the Wahawks faced Ames, a team ranked in the state's Top Ten.

Two close games with Mason City, 67-68, and East Waterloo, 55-57 the following week inspired further drill to avenge the losses in second contests.

Excitement was at fever-pitch with full support of cheering fans, when the Wahawks battled to a 55-51 victory over East Waterloo in their second encounter January 12 at McElroy Auditorium. The squad also outdistanced Mason City, 82-59, in the second contest.

Scoring 34 points against Mason City, senior Jeff Thomas came within one point of breaking a game record. Thomas had an average of 18 points per game for the season and led all scorers at the free throw line, making 68 per cent of his attempts.

Larry Moses held the highest shooting percentage from the floor, netting 49 per cent. Leading rebounder was Rod Fortune, who grabbed an average of 11 each game.

West played tough-action teams in top-ranked Ames, Fort Dodge, Cedar Rapids Washington, and Cedar Falls, and in play later in the season, the Wahawks switched to zone defense, utilizing the fast break offensively.

In tournament action West lost in first-round district play to East Waterloo, 60-74.

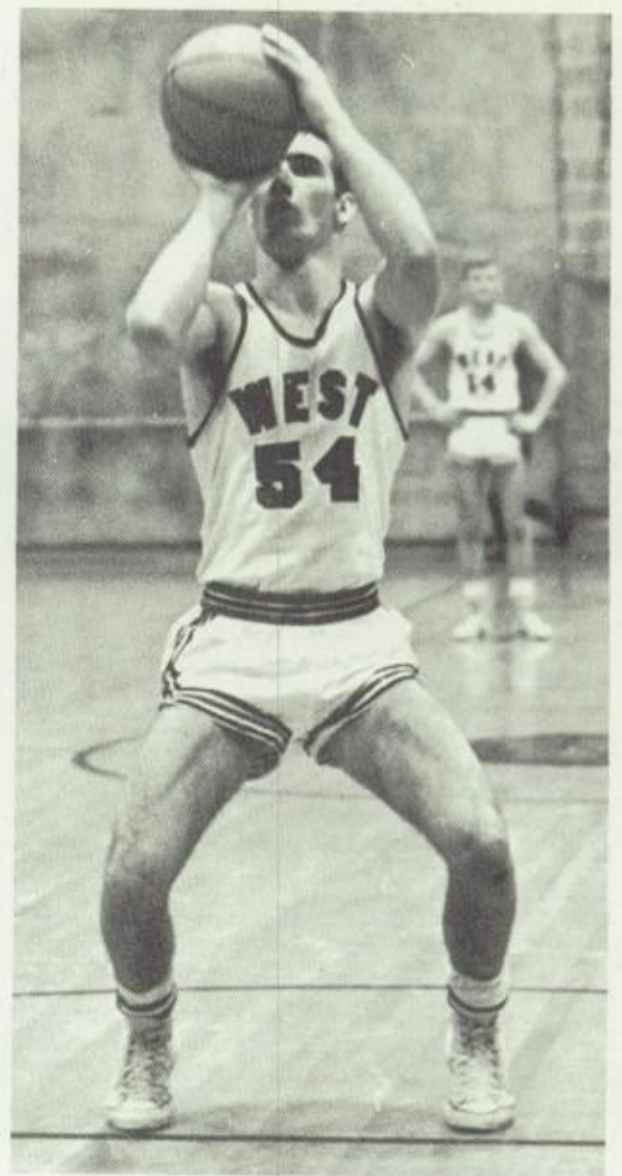

Al Lemke, team captain, and Jeff Thomas were named to the Big Six second team.

Coaching the Wahawks for his fourth year was Mr. Jack Darland. Mr. Ron Sturch was assistant coach.

Matmen Second in State; Hackett, Heene Are Champs

Defending class AA state champions for three years, the varsity wrestling team placed second in the state to Cedar Falls. Chuck Heene at 138 and Dave Hackett at 165 were individual state champions. Runners-up were Doug Moses at 120 and Bruce Wickham at 154.

Earlier by winning first place in the Osage tournament, West avenged two previous defeats—one to Algona which won the Osage meet last year, and the other to Cedar Falls which defeated West competition. Other highlights of the season were wins over East Waterloo and Dubuque Senior. The team finished with a dual meet record of 11-2.

Undefeated wrestlers at the end of the regular season were Chuck Heene at 138, Bruce Wickham at 154, and Rich Binek at 180.

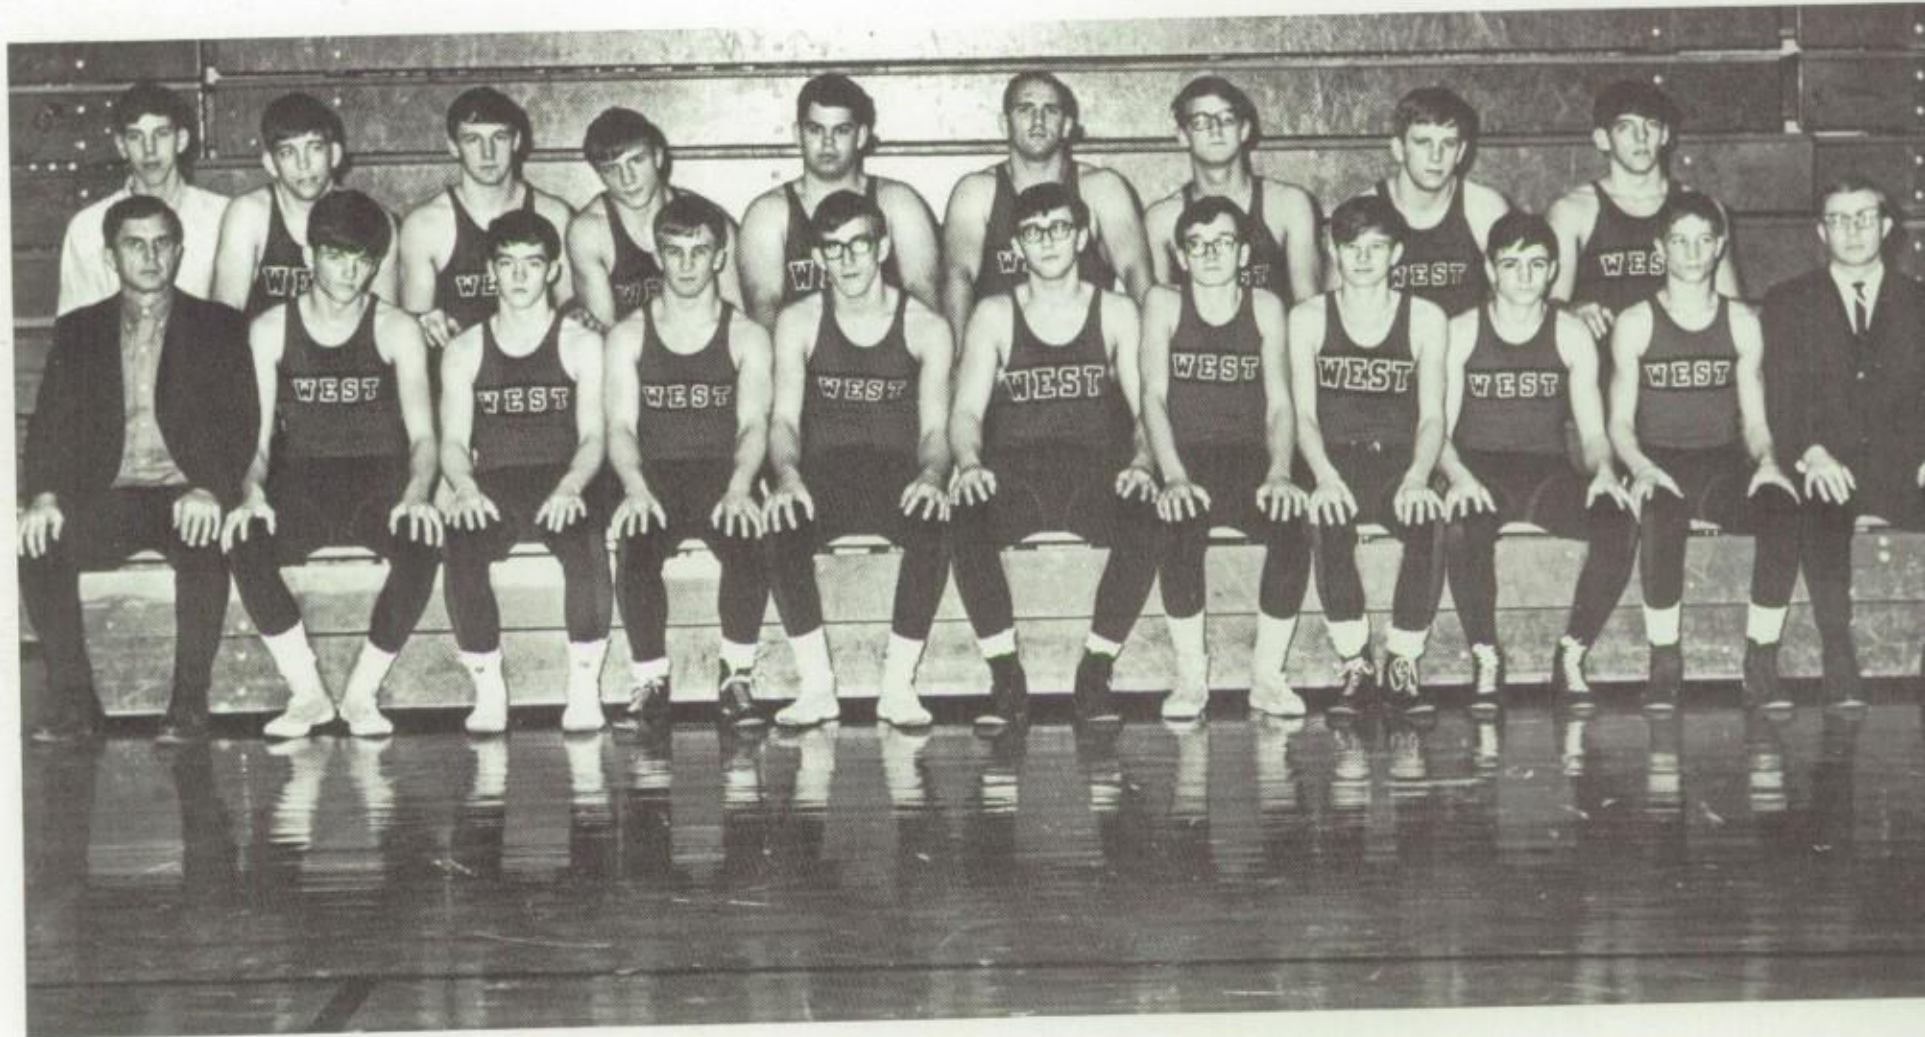

West secured the sectional title by qualifying eight grapplers for district competition. Likewise, West stayed on top in the district by edging out Cedar Falls and advancing six men to the state tourney.

3rd and 4th Undefeated Seasons Tempt Tennis Squads

New opponents for the girls' and boys' tennis teams included Cedar Falls and East Waterloo.

Consisting of six singles and three doubles matches, meets were held at West for girls and at Byrnes Park for boys.

March 15 marked the start of practice for the girls, backed by four returning letter winners, Sandy Genochio, Julie Gray, Julie Miehe, and Debbie Nolting. Mr.

William Blake coached the team, which was looking for its third consecutive undefeated season.

Hoping for a fourth straight undefeated season, the boys' team started workouts March 1. The team was coached by Mr. William Lane and led by sophomore Fred Seger and returning lettermen Dale Ein-walter, Bob Smith, and Craig Wilson.

Jo Ellen Siddens, and her escort John Graham await their entrance at the pep assembly.

A week of Homecoming festivities began on Monday, October 9 with pep talks by Don Patterson, Phil Martens, and Jeff Thomas. Tuesday featured a bean contest which involved guessing the number of beans in a jar in the Student Center. The winning guess of 13,313 beans was submitted by junior Bob Telfer. The jar held 13,520 beans.

Black headbands and rose feathers dominated the halls of Wednesday. On Thursday, color day, students wore old rose and black apparel to support Homecoming and to raise the school spirit.

Early Friday morning a pep breakfast was held at Bishops' Cafeteria. There a spirit stick was presented to the football team to be passed from one player to another during the day. The stick was then given to Coach Jack Schuver at the pep assembly held sixth hour.

Preceding a pep talk by Gary Cowell of the class of 1958, the five Wahawk princesses elected by the student body were introduced. They were Becky Foster, Judy Liffing, Julie Miehe, Becky Peet, and Jo Ellen Siddens. Their escorts were Larry Gary, Steve Geiger, John Graham, Kevin Parsons, and Tom Waterbury.

A chorus throughout the week sold white homecoming mums to add festive spirit to the evening.

Although the football team put forth a mighty effort, West lost to Ames 42-21. Half time was brightened by the Wahawk princesses who were presented to the crowd after circling the field in convertibles. The West and Ames bands also presented special entertainment at half time.

After the game a sock hop featuring the SOUL band was held for students and alumni in the boys' gym. Refreshments were served in the Student Center.

"The Beat Goes On" for 25th Annual Variety Show

"Up, Up and Away," sung by the 40-voice swing chorus and interpreted by a soft shoe line, ushered in the silver anniversary Variety Show--"And the Beat Goes on." Maintaining a fast-moving tempo throughout the performances given April 4, 5, and 6, the swing band provided tunes for 27 of the 29 acts. Master of ceremonies was junior Tom Flint.

Dance lines ranging from the flapper era to the contemporary jazz age staged their versions of the charleston, cha cha cha, can can, and modern ballet. Adding an oriental touch, the petite and dainty senior boys swayed gracefully through a Persian belly dance.

From the rich, flowing harmony of "Fly Me to the Moon" to the syncopated beat of "Go Where You Wanna Go," the swing chorus supplied rhythm and sparkle to the show.

The pulsating New Orleans sound dominated the dixieland band's number--"At the Jazz Band Ball." "Dave's Tune" and "No More Mopsys" featured Kent Schultz, swing band leader, on the vibraharp.

To carry out the theme of "Up, Up and Away," the stage setting, designed by Senior Mary Brown, featured balloon-like, free form shapes painted in blue, green, yellow, and purple.

The beat goes on . . . three pulsating nights . . . swing chorus . . . sore throats . . . fun . . . practice . . . rhythm . . . sparkle . . . suspenders . . . gloves . . . lights . . . action . . .

Snapping their fingers to the music of "Up, Up and Away" are the girls of opening line. They are Anita Ury, Ann Prexa, Candy Cosens, Debbie See, Sandy Schoger, Gwen Thomson, Debbie Witt, and Sue Snyder.

Drum majors for the marching band, Marielyn Erickson and Barb Hoover, twirl their batons while the swing band plays "Green Peppers."

"Swingin' the Petite Waltz" are Junior Tap Line dancers Bev Arnold, Janet Smiley, Debbie Wildes, Jean Cook, Karen Kempin, Marian Easton, Marlys Simpson, Nancy Boyd, Donna Mohs, Becky Nielsen, Sue Scott, Nancy Swisher, Sherry Robin, Dede Strom.

Jin Wook Choi, a black belt in karate, splits a one-inch board held by Kevin Parsons in their tameshiwari demonstration.

To haunting Hebrew strains, foreign exchange student Zahava Balas sings "Jerusalem" accompanied by Jeff Swinehart.

Betty Lutke, Becky Billings, Paula Klein, and Becky Peet meditate "Quiet nights and quiet stars, quiet chords from your guitar."

Pulsating Sounds of Persia, Spain, Philippines Accent

Displaying a pompon routine to the music of "West Wind" are seniors Martha Walker, Debbie Leo, Marcia Hammond, Janet Rohlf, Julie Miehe, Vickie L. Gardner, Becky Foster, and Shanlee Johnson.

Diane Hummel, Eunice Jensen, Vivian Ridenour Pattison dance to the rhythm of "Cha Cha Cl."

Waunita Goodrich and AFS student Dave Martinez perform the ancient Philippine dance of "Tinikiling" with the help of Ron Brunscheon and Kathy Dietz.

Mr. Gibson gives a few pointers to the cast before the Variety Show begins Saturday evening.

In black velveteen costumes with gold trim are the girls of Senior Line. They are Kay Mary Kober, Anita Ury, Margaret Bailey, Debbie Leo, Ann Allbaugh, Vickie L. Gardner, Vicki Downey, Nancy Brees, Mar-

Flagtwirlers Add Pageantry and Creativity to Games

Doing a pompom routine to "Our Boys" are the sophomore flagtwirlers Pat Schroeder, Cindy Mast, and Sue Liffing.

Carrying four-leaf clovers to urge West's football team on to victory, the six varsity flagtwirlers in gold outfits debuted with the marching band September 15. Ingenuity was essential since the girls had to make their props and match their routines to those of the marching band. For Homecoming half-time show, the girls enacted a duel to the theme of "Gunsmoke" and helped simulate a moving tape recorder for "Mission: Impossible."

In red and white, and sporting red pompoms, the flagtwirlers also helped the cheerleaders lead the student body in song at pep assemblies and basketball games.

New pompom routines, including a change in "On, Dear West High," were other evidences of the group's creativity.

Junior alternate Nancy Boyd replaced Susan Rosberg who moved away.

December 12 three sophomore flagtwirlers and an alternate were selected from eighty competitors. They were judged on their rhythm, pep, past citizenship record, and smile.

At an early morning practice, the first and second teams march together. In the front row are Sue Scott, Candy Layman, and Debbie Wildes. Eunice Jensen, Kedra Daily, Julie Pattison, and Susan Seeber march in the back row.

Trying to perfect the routine are Julie Pattison and Patty Burbank in the foreground and Debbie Wildes and Sheryl Koth in the background.

Westette Drill Team Makes Outfits, Entertains Fans

Enlivening half time with rhythm and color, the Westettes precision line entertained basketball fans. Drill team members finished their pink fringed black velvet outfits minutes before their first appearance January 19. Profits from a bake sale covered the cost of white moccasins and materials for the uniforms.

Daily at 7:30 a.m. the team practiced in the gym under the direction of Mrs. Patricia Harper and Mr. Clarence McConkey. Suggestions for routines came from everyone, especially the advisers. Along with regular marching drills, the Westettes incorporated numerous dance steps and kicks into the choreography.

Two teams of sixteen senior, junior, and sophomore girls were selected on the basis of their coordination, smile, and style. The second team served as alternates.

Pep Band Blares a Vibrant Strain

Emblazoned in blue, Girls' Pep Club members gathered in reserved sections at pep assemblies and games to cheer West's teams on to victory. Megaphones, shakers, and white gloves were all a part of the club's new look. Colorful creative posters and pep breakfasts urged the teams to triumph.

With a yippee-skippee-hooray, the Boys'

Pep Club added the needed masculine volume to the cheering section.

Mixing the contemporary with the traditional, the Pep Band served as the musical background for the pep assemblies and basketball games.

Famous for its discordant "Charge!" the hall band performed in the main hall between classes on days of home games.

Orchestra Marches with Band, Performs at Plays

Mr. Anthony Bacich directs the orchestra during a first hour practice in preparation of the Evening of Music, February 15.

At the West-Fort Dodge football game November 3, the orchestra members took up flags and marched with the band in a special tribute to Mr. William Gibson.

The orchestra provided entertainment at the fall and spring plays and accompanied the choruses in the Christmas program. February 6 the group gave an assembly. They also participated in the Evening of Music and the Tri-school Music Festival.

The strings were busy in the community playing solo and ensemble for civic clubs, schools, and other organizations.

With an enrollment of eighty-seven strings and selected band members, the orchestra under the direction of Mr. Anthony Bacich met first period.

Mr. Bacich also instructed string students at West Junior High School in the afternoon.

The 110-voice A-chorus sang Christmas selections for the Rotary Club and videotaped a television program aired over KWWL-TV December 24. Other performances of the group included a spring assembly, the Evening of Music, and the Tri-school Music Festival.

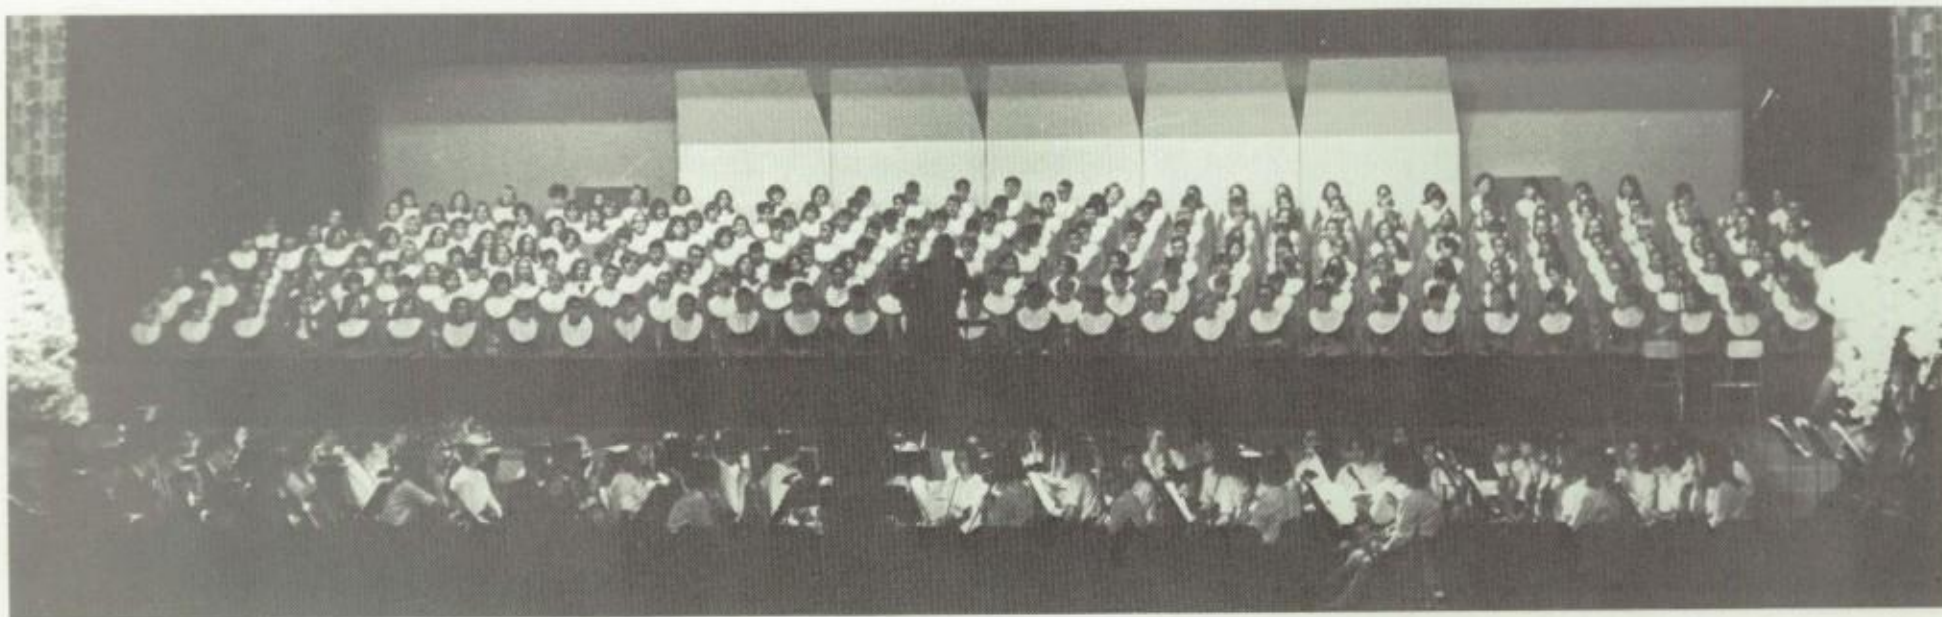

Sophomore chorus, girls' chorus, B-chorus, and A-chorus combined under choir director Mr. Vincent McCowan in the production of the Christmas program given December 20 and 21.

After Christmas the emphasis was placed upon the selection and perfection of the swing chorus. The 40-member group was the vocal background of the Variety Show, April 4, 5, and 6.

Junior Bill Howland tries his best to accentuate his song for swing chorus tryouts with gestures.

Chorus, Orchestra Present Christmas Program

The combined choruses and orchestra make final preparations before presenting the traditional Christmas program to the student body.

Bizet's "Agnus Dei" performed by the orchestra opened the annual Christmas program. The matinee was December 20, and the evening performance was presented December 21.

Ten bellringers provided a medley of "We Three Kings," "O Come All Ye Faithful," and "Silent Night." While thirteen candlelighters held candles symbolizing the light of the world, readers Tom Flint and Dave Garms narrated the Christmas story. The candlelighters were Mike Bartlett, John Day, Kim Foster, Nick Halvorson, Mark Hamer, Kirk Henderson, Greg Marquart, Kevin McCombs, Ken Moore, Bob Plager, Kevin Schatzle, Brian Staley, and Ken Young.

Mrs. Margaret Dravis was the organist for the concert.

The combined choir of 270 members sang 18 songs including, "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven," "Masters in This Hall," and "Night Journey of the Wise-men." Wilson's "Prayer and Praise," and Mozart's "Gloria" were accompanied by the orchestra.

Paula Klein and Betty Lutke were featured soloists in "Christmas Day." "A New Christmas Morning, Hallelujah" was sung by Darwin Moore.

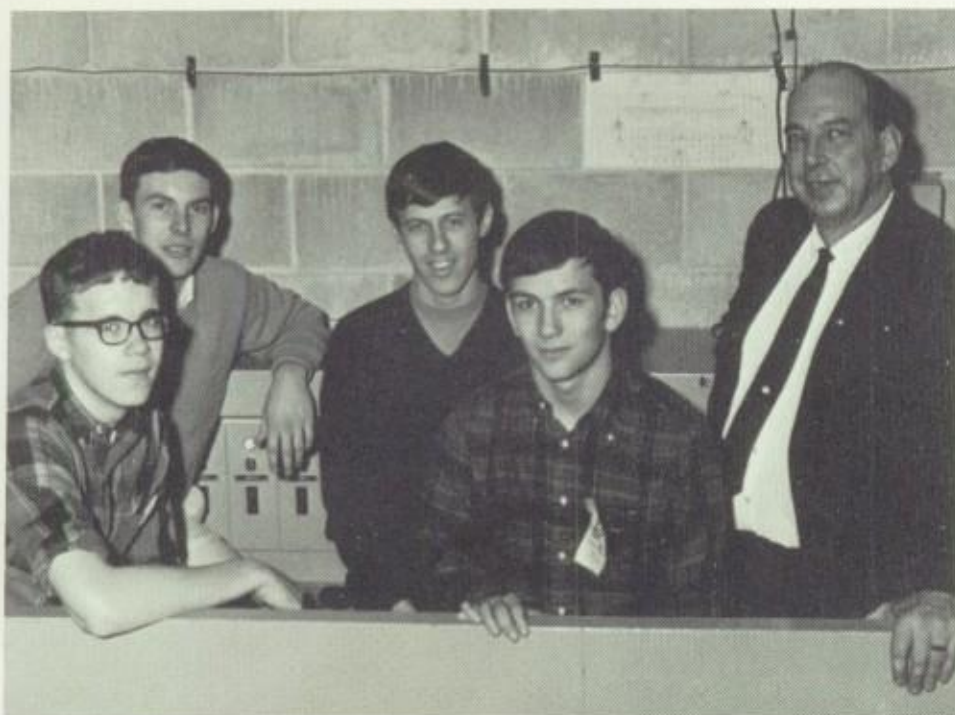

Climaxing the program was the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's MESSIAH performed by the orchestra and chorus.

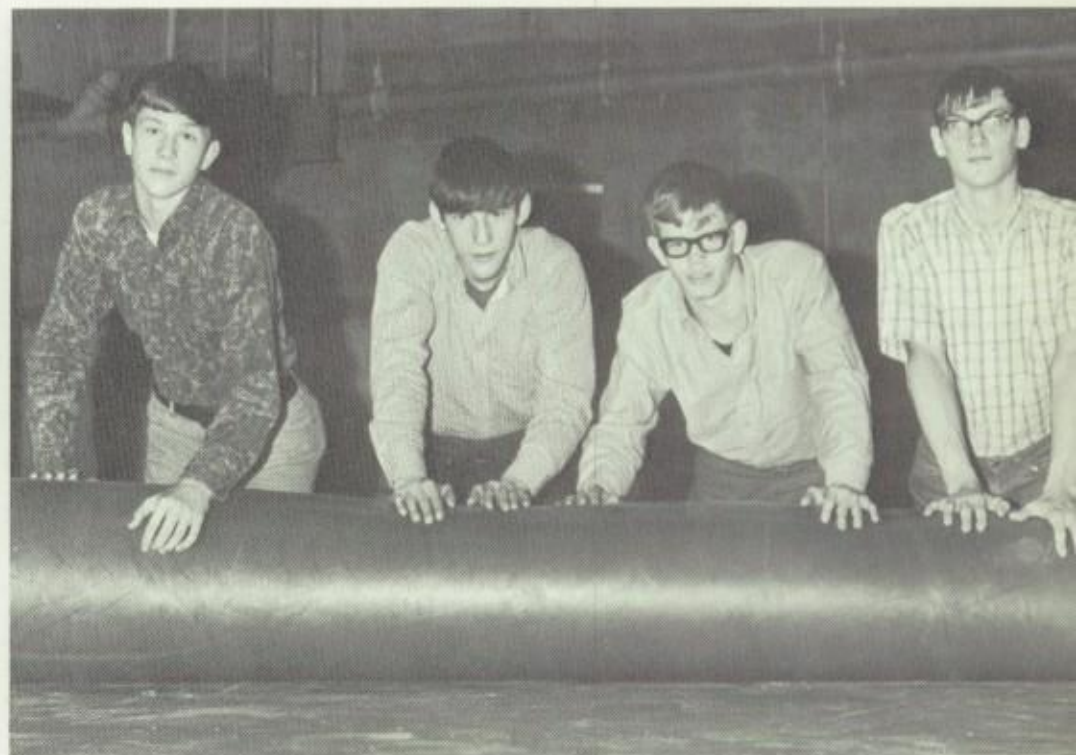

Listening to the music of the orchestra and watching Mr. McCowan's direction, Dede Strom and Ann Dalton sing out "Gloria."

Bellringers Sherrie Roehr, Ellen Butterfield, and Sue Street memorize their parts for the Christmas program in an after-school practice. Other bellringers were Jane Anderson, Angene Baseler, Cay Christian, Marsha Greene, Gina Munson, Norma Uhlig, and Shannon Wood.

The members of the light crew at the control box are Dave Thomas, and Dave Haynes in the front row and Jeff Thomas, Dan Van Syoc, and adviser Mr. Edgar Kersenbrock in the back row.

Rolling out a mat in preparation for a wrestling meet are the mat and bleacher crew. They are Jim Webb, Dennis Moore, Leo Pagel, and Don Hagerstrom.

Student Crews Assist at Variety Show, Plays, Games

Illuminating the stage for plays, the Christmas program, and the Variety Show was the task of the light crew, headed by Mr. Edgar Kersenbrock. Rewiring, relocation of stage lights and spots, selection of colors for special effects, control of the light panel behind stage, and manual operation of the balcony spots involved crew members. The crew assisted with special lighting effects in the Student Center and at school dances, including Prom.

The sound crew, under the direction of Mr. Robert Hare, set up the sound system for programs in the auditorium and for athletic events in the gym. Variety Show proved to be the biggest job for the crew, since eighteen microphones had to be integrated.

The stagecrafters, students from the vocational woodshop, took charge of the settings and props for the plays and Variety Show. Faculty advisers were Mr. Wesley Sodergren, Mr. Terry Sapp, and Mr. Julian Olson.

Pulling out the bleachers for the winter sports and moving the wrestling mats were the responsibilities of the mat and bleacher crew, led by Mr. Ernest Kristensen.

While climbing the ladder Don Young is handed an extension cord by David Winegarden. In the foreground the other members of the sound crew are Lynn Geiger, Curt Diehm, Kenny Young, Steve Geiger, and adviser Mr. Robert Hare.

Bands Earn New Uniforms, Produce New Sounds

Appearing for the first time since 1963 outfitted in the same uniforms, the varsity and sophomore bands provided marching entertainment at five home football games and at one away game in Mason City. Linda Peterson, Mariellyn Erickson, and Barbara Hoover were the drum majors.

Performances by the concert band included an assembly December 14, the Evening of Music, and the Tri-school Music Festival. Raising money through their traditional sale of "Turtles," concert band members were led by officers Mike McMullin, president; Rick Corton, vice-president; Tom Moore, secretary; and John Brecunier, treasurer.

At the end of marching band season, stage band members were selected by auditions. Stage band presented an assembly January 11 and was runner-up in the annual Tall Corn Festival at the University of Northern Iowa January 13. The stage band became the swing band for the Variety Show.

Members of pep band and stage band wore gold blazers with Bellamy Award crests purchased by the Band Department.

Band directors were Mr. Richard Baker and Mr. Robert Shafer.

Delegates Attend Boys' State, Bellamy

Rick Corton, Phil Martens, and Dan Power were West High's representatives to the twenty-ninth American Legion Boys' State June 4-10, 1967. At Camp Dodge near Des Moines, 832 boys learned how the state, county, and city governments work.

Rick Corton was appointed adjutant general; Phil Martens was elected Senate clerk; and Dan Power was elected president pro tempore of the House.

On October 9, Jeff Thomas flew to Tucson, Arizona, to attend the Bellamy presentation at Flowing Wells High School. Jeff presented the school with a silver plate symbolic of friendship.

The Bellamy Award was given in honor of Francis Bellamy, author of the "Pledge of Allegiance." Selected for its outstanding citizenship and patriotism, West High received the Bellamy Award in 1962.

Rick Corton, who was appointed adjutant general at the American Legion Boys' State, accepts congratulations from Adjutant General of Iowa Junior F. Miller.

The officials of the Flowing Wells Bellamy ceremony pose with two high school representatives. They are Dr. Margarette Miller, director of the National Bellamy Program; Jim Larrick, Cherry Creek High School, Englewood, Colorado; Jack Williams, governor of Arizona; Mrs. Sarah Folsom, Arizona state superintendent; Dr. Eugene E. Garbee, president of Upper Iowa College, Bellamy Advisory Board; and Jeff Thomas, West High School.

During his Bellamy address, Jeff Thomas presents a miniature John Deere tractor to Flowing Wells High School.

Student Dramatists Present Plays, 'New Gossoon', 'Major Barbara'

George Sheils' rural Irish comedy "The New Gossoon" was presented November 17 under Miss Ruth Wilson's direction. Set on the Carey farm near Ulster, Ireland, on a 1929 summer day, the play involved the rebellion of the younger generation against the older generation's social barriers and hard work. Music between the acts was furnished by the West High School Orchestra.

The contest play, presented February

23 and 24, a cutting from George Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara," was set in a London Salvation Army shelter in 1905. Barbara struggled to convert souls to God, but the quest for money for the Army involved her in a momentous decision over accepting tainted money. Cast members were Karol Yeager, John Stevens, John Henry, Jane Ebbing, Jim Cook, Darwin Moore, and Debbie Garrison.

Debbie Garrison as Jenny Hill, Karol Yeager as Major Barbara, and John Henry as Professor Cusins watch skeptically as Andrew Undershaft, played by John Stevens, makes out a $5,000 check for the Salvation Army.

Silhouetted against the lights, Charles Van Lengen as Fox Hamel ponders the indignant retort of Mag Kehoe played by Sundee Hickman in "The New Gossoon."

Portraying Sally Hamel, Diana Dahlgaard argues with Dan Holtkamp over his new motorcycle.

The Spectator Seeks Wide Coverage

News Editor Dan Power, Editor Barb Bandfield, and Feature Editor Linda Christensen proof the SPECTATOR copy at the printers.

Headed by Editor Barb Bandfield and Adviser Mr. Gerald Ganfield, SPECTATOR staff members attended newspaper seminars in Cedar Falls, Chicago, and Ames. The staff conducted a mock election for the mayor of Waterloo with the results corresponding closely to those of the city election.

New equipment including an enlarger, camera, strobe, and light meter aided photographers Art Reynolds and Jim Raudabaugh.

Printed every two weeks, the 1,850 copies of THE SPECTATOR were distributed at West High, three junior highs—West Junior, Edison, and Hoover—and to nearly one hundred other student newspapers.

THE SPECTATOR was awarded the International First Place by Quill and Scroll for the year 1966-67, and First Class from NSPA.

The paper was a member of the Iowa High School Press Association, the National Scholastic Press Association, and the Quill and Scroll.

Mr. Ganfield reads over Roger Krebs's Wooden Indian column for the SPECTATOR as Roger earnestly waits.

Brent Carlson, assistant sports editor, Dave Bartlett, sports editor, and Jim Raudabaugh ponder over the sports articles on the layouts for the SPECTATOR.

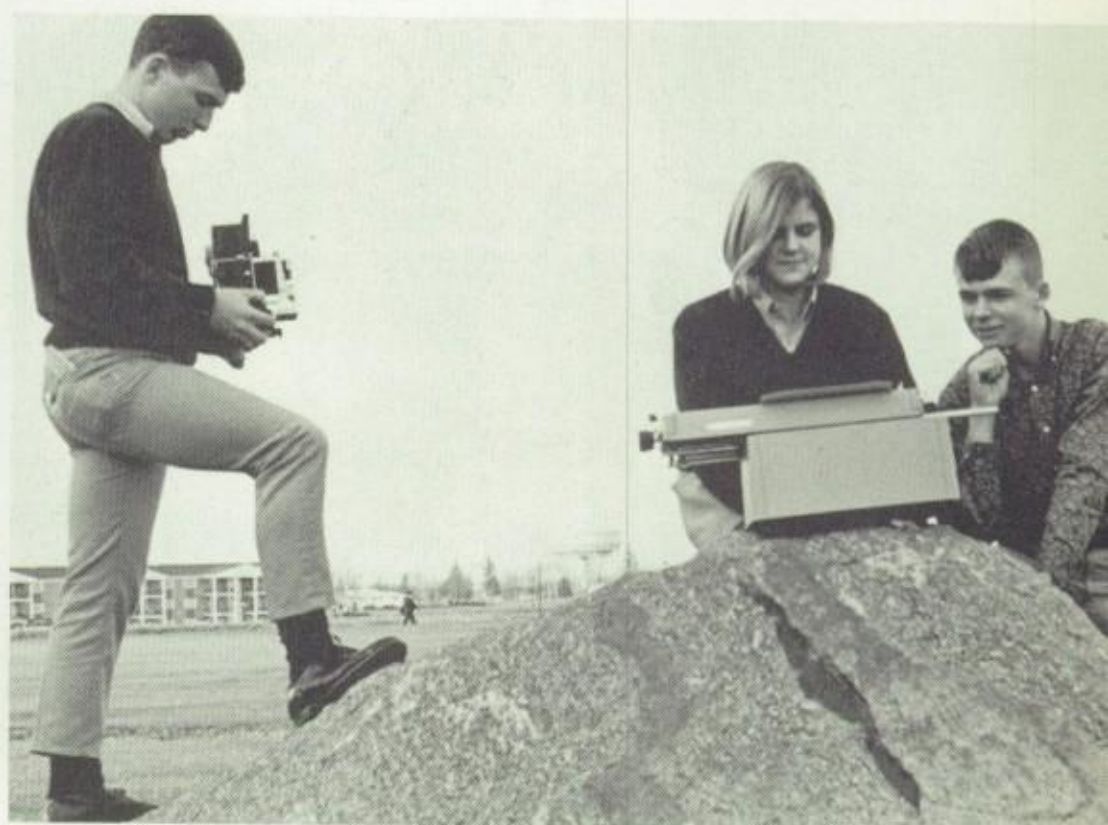

Trying to encourage the manager of the Pizza Hut to place an ad in the SPECTATOR are Business Manager Tom Corsello, Advertising Manager Shannon Wood, and Viv Ridenour, advertising assistant.

Exchange Editor Candy Cosens reads an exchange paper as Sandy Schoger types SPECTATOR copy.

Editor Sue Street, Business Manager Mike McMullin, and Copy Editor Cathy Chambers pinch pennies while planning the yearbook budget.

Photographer Art Reynolds is on the spot to take a picture of Janet Rohlf, organizations editor, and Jon McNamee, sports editor, at the grindstone.

Yearbook Reflects the Year's Activities

Portraying the year's activities through pictures and words was the annual staff's purpose in producing the WAHAWK. Inter-Collegiate Press of Kansas City was the new publisher to whom the staff sent its materials for deadlines in November, December, January, February, and April. Innovations in the 176-page yearbook were color and collegiate booksize. There was no spring supplement as there had been the previous two years.

Fund-raising projects included the selling of popcorn at the football games, a coat check at the winter sports, and the sale of plastic yearbook covers. Sales promotion started with a skit, "Case: D. O.A.," presented with the help of the hall band.

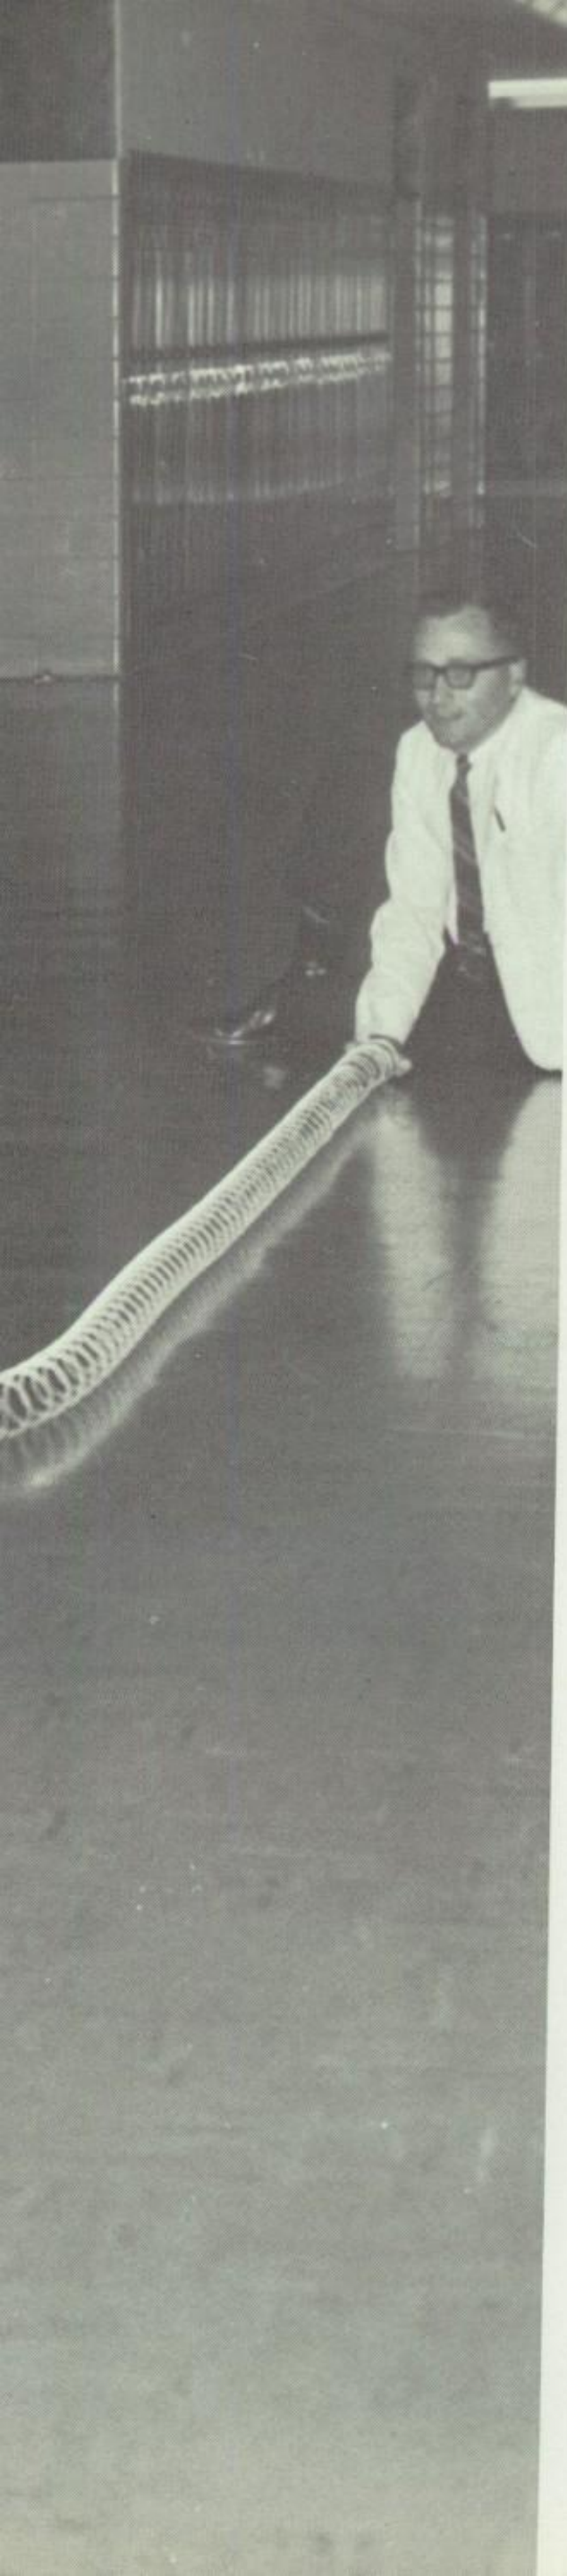

Staff members attended the National Scholastic Press Association convention in Chicago at Thanksgiving and workshops in Waverly and Oelwein. The WAHAWK belonged to Quill and Scroll and to the Iowa Scholastic Press Association.

"Now I was sure I put that picture in here somewhere!" says Senior Picture Editor Diane Arnold.

As the 583 seniors completed their secondary education, their thoughts were thrust to the future. Whether it was the armed forces, college, vocational training, or a job, now was when they made their decision.

Homecoming, Variety Show, Prom, and Commencement all had a special meaning for seniors as this was the last year they could actively participate in these events.

Many students gained special honors. Rick Corton spent a summer in Spain as West's foreign exchange student. Diane Ruisch was chosen DAR representative. Eight students were selected as National Merit Semifinalists and eighteen received Letters of Commendation.

Irma Horstia from Finland, Dave Martinez from the Philippines, and Choi Jin Wook from Waterloo's sister city, Kangnung, Korea, returned home full of American ideas and traditions and with many memories of their experiences at West.

At commencement the class faced the challenge of the future.

With Knowledge We Will Prosper

The consensus of the junior class members was that their junior year had been stimulating. The class launched the year by electing officers: Jack Hiatt, president; Becky Brody, vice-president; and Steve D. Anderson, secretary.

Most juniors made use of the Future Plans facilities and the qualifying exams, such as PSAT, SAT, NMSQT, and ACT. The guidance counselors helped many students who started thinking about their future careers to plan their post-graduation schooling.

Once accustomed to the team teaching program, the juniors settled down to discussions and interesting lectures in American History and Government I and English III, where the classes covered American Literature intensively.

Junior class officers are Becky Brody, vice-president, and Steve D. Anderson, secretary. Jack Hiatt, president, was absent because of a football injury.

We Look Back Upon a Fun-filled Year

These fearless leaders assume their new roles: Curt Diehm, secretary; Tom Wilcox, vice president; and Lynn Geiger, president.

Led by class officers—Lynn Geiger, president; Tom Wilcox, vice president; and Curt Diehm, secretary—the 667 sophomores made up over one third of the entire student body.

A large portion of the first weeks was occupied by their being oriented to West and its traditions. This included group conferences with the guidance counselors, a lecture by librarian Miss Mary Wordehoff, and a talk on the Bellamy Award to the homerooms by senior Jeff Thomas. On October 26, the sophomores' parents became acquainted with the school at Open House.

Sophomores participated in a great many extracurricular activities. For the first time they were in charge of decorating the gym for Homecoming. They also took part in many clubs, athletics, and the Variety Show.

This yearbook . . . reflection of school year . . . image of experiences . . . events in perspective. Days, weeks, months of work . . . deadlines . . . page ladder . . . editors . . . assignments . . . copy . . . pictures . . . layouts. Long after-school hours . . . homework undone . . . meals uneaten . . . mental labor. Then proofs . . . our work in print! Impressive, though not quite as envisioned . . . corrections. Another deadline . . . always more work ahead . . . can we make it?

Finally—delivery date . . . our book . . .

criticism . . . "I wish I could redo that layout!" . . . "I wish we had reprinted that picture!" . . . inevitable but futile hoping. Satisfaction, pride, fear of acceptance—we felt them all. Staff members—essential for publication—responsible for success—I thank you for vital contributions. Art Reynolds, Jim Raudabaugh—pictures . . . Cathy Chambers—copy . . . Mr. G.—time, patience, and guidance . . . special thanks. Our aim . . . reflection of moods, thoughts, studies, events . . . image of year . . . realized with your help.

Yato of Luck

May our summer
 now! finally make it. Congratulations Remember last summer? the really summer slot of activities into a few months ... June?? Not... the last the tiger (to R. Most of course)! the five... starting? And everyone on anyone ever told you that you were a good fire builder? Not. And a good day!
 Con- on the cat, popcorn, hamburger, yum!
 the above we watched "loggia" since June 12! Anyway, thanks for being such a great friend and introducing me to some neat guys! Be good and take care of yourself this summer with a some home from camp to take care of you 1917 Okwell. One more & command you on your outstanding performance (graduating?).
 Good luck. Always. ~~Get it?~~

 Ed. Please try and stay out of trouble while in your OK?

Mary,

Sorry I haven't a pen but that's beside the point! We've had a great time this last month. Too bad we were at different schools. Wish we could have went on
but if that's the way you want it, at least we can still be friends ok?

Love
Hep

Mary -
It's been a riot
at your table in SH this year. Thanks for all the goodies & jokes!
Joyce W.

Mary!
O a real nice gal, who was in my English class. I wish you a lot of luck in the future.
Good Luck.
Carnie Brekoff '68

Mary,
what would
I have been like without all your jokes, laughs, problems etc - Library would have been a bore but y' all made it enjoyable -
BE GOOD
Becki

P.S. Keep away from the Boys -
Remember Mary -
one at a time
but keep the line moving!

Mary,
 To a girl who needs
 a lot of luck - so I wish it to ya. You're a nice(?) girl.
 Be Good.

Palme

Mary,
 To a good cook.
 I have had fun with you in my classes this year and the other years. Good luck

Mary,
 Have a real always
 and don't do anything you do. Good luck in all Don't do. Be a good kid.
 to get together me, we'll have preferably before in summer
